New permit for visitors parking to be introduced

Elderly and vulnerable residents set to benefit

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertssexnews.co.uk

A NEW permit is set to be introduced for elderly and vulnerable residents, who are currently forced to pay £1 a day for visitors to park at their homes.

Earlier this year the North Essex Parking Partnership (NEPP) withdrew a visitor's permit that could be used by multiple vehicles for an annual charge of £10.

As a result residents living in permit-only zones were forced to apply for either a £30 carer's permit or a visitor's permit, which could only be registered to one vehicle. Any other visitors were forced to purchase a £1 per day permit from the Civic Centre.

Dependent

The issue has been debated in the Star's letters pages, with one resident writing: "Recently widowed at the age of 86 and unable to get out very much for health reasons, I am dependent on visitors at the cost of £1 per time and a carer whose permit costs £30 for one year plus £14.50 for a GP support letter," one resident told the Star.

Labour-run Harlow Council said the changes were rubber-stamped in 2011 under the previous Conservative administration.

But now, following a meeting with the NEPP, the council has secured support for a "locally-focused approach" and a permit for up to three vehicles will be introduced.

This permit will be available to elderly and vulnerable residents and will in addition to the carer's permit. It is likely to cost between £20 and £30 per annum.

Tony Durcan, Harlow Council's portfolio holder for regeneration and enterprise, secured the decision following a meeting with NEPP.

He said: "Since my time as the cabinet holder representative on the North Essex Parking Partnership board I have had to deal with numerous complaints from constituents who support their elderly relatives in their homes across wards in Harlow regarding permits. I sought assurances that NEPP consider addressing this by way of a local perspective."

Discretionary

"At the North Essex Parking Partnership meeting on March 12 the committee discussed the merits of the partnership districts being able to issue discretionary resident permits. I am pleased to confirm that I have secured NEPP support to address the issues with a more locally focused approach."

"I would like to take the opportunity to express my thanks to staff who have been dealing with a number of individual cases whilst we have been attempting to find a long-term solution."

"It was agreed that a limit of three discretionary permits per household would be issued each year in those partner authorities offering them, but not be automatically reviewed."

are lucky to be alive. "They suffered considerable blood loss, meaning that the two male suspects who carried out the violence and the van are likely to be covered in blood."

It has also been revealed that one of the male attackers was struck on the head during the struggle and may have suffered swelling or some blood loss himself.

DC Burgess added: "Thankfully violent crimes such as this are extremely rare. However, we are keen to catch those responsible as soon as possible."

"If anyone knows anything, please come forward to us so we can arrest these people and remove them from our streets."

All three attackers are described as white and spoke with local accents.

The woman is described as aged 18-22, 5ft 2ins tall and slim with long, light-coloured hair. She was wearing a light coloured jacket, dark or black leggings and white or light-coloured footwear.

CCTV footage shows her smoking a cigarette when she got back into the van via the passenger side.

One of the men was aged in his thirties, about 5ft 8ins tall and of medium build. He was balding or had short shaved hair and wore a dark top. The second was also about 5ft 8ins tall, of medium build and wore a white top.

The CCTV footage shows the van had no identifying marks such as sign writing or roof bars.

■ Witnesses to the attack should contact Harlow CID on 101 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555111.

County releases figures for faulty street lights

MORE than 130 of Harlow's street lights were reported as defective at the end of last month, according to new figures released by Essex County Council.

Of the 9,005 street lights across the town which are the responsibility of Essex Highway, 138 (1.53 per cent) were faulty.

That figure compares to 134 at the end of March last year.

Across the county, 2,412 of the 127,022 street lights owned and maintained by Essex County Council were defective.

It is the first time the county council has published the figures.

Paul Bird, director for commissioning, transport and infrastructure, said: "Street light maintenance is a key priority and regular inspections take place to ensure the network is working to aid public safety."

"Our aim is to keep the percentage of defective street lights to below two per cent of total stock."

Pet dies after it is shot with air rifle

Family cat's leg was shattered by the pellet

William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A HEARTBROKEN couple are mourning the death of their pet cat which had to be put down after it was shot with an air rifle.

Sue Bovingdon, 51, of Perry Spring, Harlow, said she was "devastated" because the cat, called Lester, was the second she had lost in similar circumstances.

She previously had to have a kitten put down after it was shot, while two other cats she has owned have also been hit by air rifle pellets.

Lester was severely injured when a pellet went into his leg. Mrs Bovingdon and husband Chris were unable to afford the £700 vet bill and so had to have him put to sleep.

Mrs Bovingdon said: "I'm devastated now. We haven't got any children and our cats are everything to us but they keep being shot."

"There are so many people round here who are saying their cats are vanishing, possibly because of shootings. It's hard to see any wound from an air rifle pellet and the cat will suddenly die."

Cruel

She added: "My neighbour lost her cat too through a shooting. It is a vile and cruel act that needs to be stopped."

Mrs Bovingdon has contacted the police to report the shootings and said the issue was being taken "very seriously".

Lester, described as a "fit and healthy cat", returned home on April 4 unable to walk properly. An x-ray image showed his leg was shattered as a result of the shooting and he was put down two days later.

Lester's death follows the shootings of three of Mrs Bovingdon's other cats, with one-year-old kitten Albie having to be put down in November 2013 after a hole was discovered in his belly.

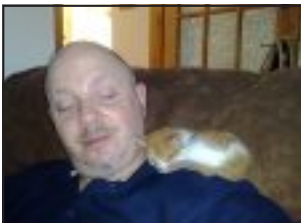

The couple assumed six-year-old cat Flo had been injured in a fight after she "wasn't herself" earlier this year, but after taking her to the vet a rifle pellet was discovered. Fortunately it was not fatal and Flo is now recovering from her ordeal.

PUT DOWN: Lester the cat came home limping and an X-ray by the vet showed his leg was shattered by air rifle pellet

HORRIFIC: The X-ray of Lester's leg

LIKE FAMILY: Chris Bovingdon with one of his cats as a kitten

Mr Bovingdon added: "We have another cat, Wilma, but we're keeping her inside now. All three of our remaining cats are very nervous and Wilma has been excessively skittish."

"Companion Care Vets have been brilliant and have done an x-ray free of charge so that we have evidence to show the police."

An RSPCA spokesman said: "Any increase in reports of animals being targeted with air rifles is a worry. We have handled countless cases through the years of people who think it is acceptable to shoot defenceless pets in

Police join European crackdown on speeding motorists

POLICE have been targeting speeding drivers in Harlow this week as part of a Europe-wide crackdown on motorists who flout the law.

Up to 80 officers from Essex Police's casualty reduction team have been at various locations around the county as part of the European Traffic Police Network (TISPOL) operation, which sees forces across the continent work together.

TISPOL is an organisation that allows traffic police across the continent to work together to reduce the number of deaths, serious injury and crime on the roads.

All this week forces across Europe are focusing on targeting speeding motorists. Harlow is one of the locations in Essex where officers have been targeting speeders as part of the crackdown, with the operation ending on Sunday.

Patrolling

Two officers patrolling the county's roads were Special Constables David Thomas and Keith Smith. Both men work as volunteers and have a combined 25 years of experience.

Mr Smith said: "We're about education and preventing casualties, not about how many people we can fine. We're not a cash cow."

"We are here to hopefully stop someone being injured. The overall aim of any police officer is the same, to preserve life and property. We're just specialised in traffic."

Adam Pipe, manager of Essex Police's Casualty Reduction Section, said: "Speeding costs lives, there is absolutely no doubt of that. Road safety remains a priority for Essex Police and their partners within the Safer Essex Roads Partnership."

"However it is great to join forces with our police colleagues across Europe to not only target those breaking the law but to raise awareness amongst motorists."

Fuel duty will be key factor

SIR I thoroughly enjoyed last week's General Election debate at St Paul's Church. Though I did not agree with the Green candidate, I was very impressed with the honesty of his arguments and his personal commitment to our community's most disadvantaged.

Going by the heckling of the Labour candidate, it would seem that those struggling to get by no longer believe that party can deliver for the poorest members of our community.

Robert Halfon rightly pointed out that the best way out of poverty is through work and under the coalition government millions of new jobs and apprenticeships have been created, but more needs to be done to help people back on their feet.

I was surprised, however, that Mr Halfon failed to mention one of his greatest achievements – that of cutting fuel duty. For ordinary workers the freezing of Labour's fuel duty escalator has meant the average motorist has saved £680.

We now hear that Labour's

Harriet Harman has refused to rule out increasing taxes on petrol. Like most wealthy Labour politicians she can no doubt afford to pay the extra but I am a part-time civil servant working an anti-social shift pattern and I need my car to get to work so I will have no choice but cough up the extra.

Come May 7 the choice is clear for those who drive a vehicle (or for that matter use the buses) – we need to re-elect Mr Halfon so that he can continue his work in saving us from paying even more of our hard-earned money in taxes.

Guy L. Mitchinson
Joiners Field, Harlow

Reject politics of despair

SIR As Robert Halfon seeks re-election as MP for Harlow, he ignores the devastating effects of the cuts in social security benefits for which his government is responsible, exemplified by the case of Tim Salter.

Tim Salter was a 53 year-old blind depressive with agoraphobia. He went for a Work Capability Assessment with the company contracted by the government to assess those in receipt of Incapacity Benefit. He was found fit for work and his benefit was stopped.

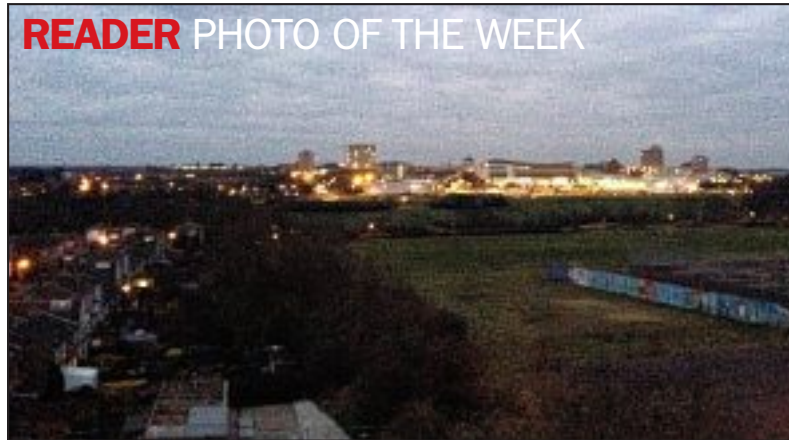

He could not afford groceries, he could not pay his rent. On the day his sister found him hanged in his home there was no food in his larder and none in his fridge. In the bin was an eviction notice.

South Staffordshire coroner Andrew Haigh ruled that the cut in his benefit was a major factor in his death, yet the Conservatives propose inflicting a further £12bn cut in benefits. However, it should not be forgotten that the punitive Work Capability Assessment regime was introduced by the last Labour government and that Labour would continue the existing cuts.

We need to reject the politics of social division and despair peddled by Cameron, Clegg, Farage and Miliband and embrace the politics of hope and social cohesion offered by anti-austerity groups such as the Green Party.

In dark over welfare cuts

SIR The Tories are going to make £12bn in welfare cuts but won't tell us where. They are going to increase the NHS budget by £8bn but won't tell us how.

Keep the voters in the dark and feed them on bull* seems to be their approach. What a way to ask us to let them run the country!

Tony Edwards
Felmongers, Harlow

Pensioners' point of view

SIR In less than a month we have a very important General Election and I would like to make a few points on behalf of pensioners.

The official poverty line is £178 a week yet the state pension has just gone up to £115 a week. I know you can get benefits to increase this amount but if you have a small occupational pension that brings you to 10p above the level you will receive nothing.

For all our working lives we have paid National Insurance which, when it was brought in after the war, was to pay for our pension, the NHS and, if we became unemployed, our unemployment benefit.

We now have one of the worst state pensions in Europe. Seasonal adjustment data from the Office of National Statistics shows the number of jobless aged between 16-24 rose by 30,000 between September and November last year, taking the total for that age group to 764,000 with a further 670,000 not in education or work. How will they manage when they get older?

Back in the 1980s the government got rid of practically all our industries. What do we manufacture in this country now? Once Harlow had many factories producing goods but now it's just a load of shops.

Les Coben (chairman), Harlow Pensioners Action Association Rectory Wood, Harlow

Playing with livelihoods

SIR With reference to the recent letter from Clare Harrison ("Too few jobs to go round", March 19), I completely agree with her views and fully appreciate the worry and concerns she is experiencing regarding local employment.

What many local workers are experiencing is due to the failure over the past 20 years of government and local councils to fully appreciate our town's diversity of the very professional and skilled workforces we have had, and still have, to encourage the larger employers and corporations to our town.

Harlow has been engineered to become a predominantly service sector provider, which is fine in buoyant markets but which in a recession is destabilising and disastrous to local communities. These businesses are also not recognised or associated as large employers.

Figures from 2010 for Harlow show the service sector providing 59.7 per cent of our town's workforce and 22.6 per cent working in the public sector, leaving only 17.6 per cent working in the manufacturing and building sectors.

In a letter to the Star last year I pointed out that from the new £50m investment in the Enterprise Zone, not one job could be guaranteed to our local workforce.

While governments and councils are taking little or no responsibility for the livelihoods of local people to build strong communities and genuinely balanced societies that we would all like to be part of, it seems we will all be players in the employment world of musical chairs, with lifetimes of financial peaks and troughs.

Run for us in marathon

SIR I am writing to ask Star readers to be part of something amazing by joining Team Diabetes UK and running at this year's Virgin Money London Marathon on Sunday, April 26.

We're looking for support from runners who already have their own place in the marathon but haven't yet decided which charity to run for.

In the East of England alone there are currently 300,000 people living with diabetes as well as a further 66,250 who have Type 2 diabetes but don't yet know it.

Diabetes is not something to be taken lightly. It's a serious condition that if not properly managed, can lead to devastating complications such as blindness, kidney failure, heart disease, stroke and amputation.

By joining Team Diabetes UK at this year's Virgin Money London Marathon, runners will be raising money to provide vital information and support to local people with diabetes as well as increasing awareness for those who are as yet undiagnosed.

If you would like to run for Diabetes UK, please contact our fundraising team on 0345 123 2399.

Summer is a nightmare

SIR Here we go again. Now the clocks have gone forward my neighbours are dreading the start of six months of hell.

Shouting, swearing, footballs just missing our windows, all-night parties – why do we have to put up with it?

We have to get up early for work but they don't care less. They sleep all day and party all night.

All we are asking for is a bit of consideration. I live in Milwards and there is no community spirit any more. Roll on the winter and the dark evenings. I hope it rains all summer long.

CHANGE: The Angle site in Fourth Avenue

Housing group unveils its plan for 'Angle' site

Flats to replace The Square music venue

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertssexnews.co.uk

PLANS for the redevelopment of a prominent site on the edge of Harlow town centre have been unveiled.

Circle Housing Group revealed its proposals for The Angle development, incorporating the YWCA tower block and The Square music venue in Fourth Avenue, at an invite-only event held at the Gibberd Gallery on Thursday.

The housing scheme features a mixture of one, two and three-bedroom flats.

Under the plans the YWCA building, which has been standing empty for a number of years, will be retained and refurbished while The Square will be demolished.

Last week SquareOne Entertainment, which manages The Square, confirmed it would close by the end of this year but added it was currently assessing the feasibility of moving to a new site that appeared to present a very exciting opportunity to "relocate, revamp and reinvigorate" the venue.

Around 60 people – mainly residents but also representatives from the Harlow Civic Society, Harlow Arts Trust and SquareOne Entertainment – attended the preview event.

Afterwards a spokeswoman for

THE FUTURE: An artist's impression of The Angle development

Circle Housing Group said the proposals had overall received a positive response.

"Concerns were expressed about car parking provision in the new scheme, but we allayed these by explaining about the adjoining and undercroft parking provision allowed for in the design."

"The other main concern raised was about the future of The Square. We dealt with these concerns by explaining the approach we have taken and showed people copies of the statement on The Square's Facebook page."

She said representatives for SquareOne Entertainment were also present had offered to discuss and offering to discuss any ongoing issues directly with those concerned.

"We felt that it was a very positive session and the feedback from residents was extremely useful," she added. "We're very grateful for their input."

A planning application will be submitted to Harlow Council at the end of this month. It is expected a decision will be made by mid-August.

Stars sign Razed Roof raffle prizes

AN Albert Square plaque signed by the cast of EastEnders and a football signed by the Arsenal team are two of the prizes in a raffle to raise funds for Harlow-based inclusive performing arts group Razed Roof.

The group, which is based at The Playhouse, provides opportunities for people with and without disabilities and learning difficulties, to take part in stage productions.

Tickets cost £1 and will be on sale at a special stand in the Harvey Centre from Monday to Friday next week.

Moped muggers steal OAP's bag

AN elderly woman was robbed by two youths on a moped as she was walking in Pyenest Road, Harlow, on Tuesday.

The 83-year-old victim was on the pavement when the muggers pushed her to the ground as they passed by and stole her bag containing her purse. She suffered minor injuries but was left shaken by the incident.

Police are appealing for witnesses or anyone with information to call Harlow police on 101.

Crews tackle bedroom fire

THREE people were left homeless after fire broke out in a property in Harlow on Sunday evening.

Fire crews from Harlow and Old Harlow were sent to the property in Moorfield shortly after 8pm.

They used one hose reel to extinguish the fire, which is believed to have started in a bedroom, and then a high pressure fan to ventilate to building.

Missing student once worked at town's hospital

Concern grows for safety of 24-year-old

William Mata

william.mata@hertsexnews.co.uk

MISSING student Karen Buckley previously worked at Harlow's Princess Alexandra Hospital it emerged yesterday (Wednesday).

Miss Buckley, now a student in Glasgow, has not been seen since Sunday and has become the centre of a national police and media search.

She was last seen leaving the popular student Glasgow nightclub Sanctuary in the early hours of Sunday morning to go to a man's flat where she is said to have spent several hours.

Police Scotland are searching a nearby park where her handbag was found on Tuesday.

The 24-year-old, who is originally from Cork in Ireland, recently worked as a nurse at PAH but is currently a first-year occupational therapy student at Glasgow Caledonian University.

Jim Kerr, detective superintendent at Police Scotland, said at a press conference yesterday: "We are gravely concerned for Karen's safety.

"On Tuesday we appealed for a man she was seen with on CCTV walking along Dumbarton Road after she left the club. We have traced him and I must stress that at this time he is not a suspect. From what we can see she does not appear under duress; there is no sign of struggle or reluctance on her part to leave the club, however, again that does not mean that nothing untoward has happened to her."

DS Kerr continued: "We know she left the club with her handbag - which has been found - but left her coat behind and so far has not returned to pick it up.

"Why she left so suddenly without telling her friends we just don't know. It was very much out of character; she is usually very good at keeping in touch with pals."

He added: "Karen is a lovely girl, close to her family and popular with her friends. She has only been in Glasgow a few months, and if staying out will always let her friends know - hence the real concern here."

Posting to the Spotted in Harlow Facebook page, one user said: "Karen was a nurse at PAH in Harlow and left recently to go up to Scotland to study."

"She has lots of friends in Harlow who are very concerned for her safety."

New home for stroke support group

STAFF working for a Harlow charity which offers support services to people who have suffered a stroke are getting used to their new surroundings after moving premises.

The Harlow Stroke Support Group moved out of its offices at Wych Elm and into the Great Parndon Community Association building in Abercrombie Way.

Care manager Jean Miley said this week: "We're absolutely ecstatic. The new office is beautiful and we couldn't be happier. I'd like to thank everyone at the GPCA for being extremely supportive and helpful; we wouldn't be here without them."

HSSG - which provides non-medical support, information and advice to people who have survived a stroke, as well as their family and carers - was told last month they would need to leave their previous base.

Its call for help to secure alternative premises was answered by community managers at the GPCA who pulled out all the stops to rehome them.

The charity officially opened its new office on Friday.

Party time on Edith's special day

Great gran celebrates her 102nd

William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

LIFE could not be sweeter for one grand old lady who celebrated her 102nd birthday on Tuesday with a tea and cake party.

Great grandmother Edith Hurst was the toast of her fellow residents and carers at the Partridge Care Centre, in Partridge Road, Harlow, during an enjoyable afternoon on a wonderfully sunny day.

Born in 1913, Mrs Hurst has seen a lot in her time and was happy to be celebrating with her friends and family.

"I feel very old but it is a beautiful day and I'm enjoying it very much," she said. "I am enjoying the tea and birthday cake."

The she quipped: "I haven't had any presents yet and if I don't get any this afternoon then there will be trouble."

"I have received a card from the Queen, it was nice of her to remember my birthday."

Having lived through two world wars and the reign of three monarchs, Mrs Hurst moved into the care home only two years ago after having lived in Ongar for 20 years.

Mrs Hurst has two children – daughter Lorraine, who joined her for the celebration along with around 15 residents, and a son who passed away many years ago. She also has three grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

"I don't want any more great grandchildren at the moment as we don't have the money for it yet," she said, adding: "I hope you can come and see me next year when I'll be 103."

Centre care worker Tracey Livett added: "Edith has been with us for two years and is very happy to be celebrating her birthday."

"We put on this tea and cake afternoon specially for her."

New training service to raise awareness of sensory impairment

A NEW service to tackle the loneliness and isolation experienced by people suffering from the loss of their hearing or sight is being launched in Harlow.

Latest figures estimate that by 2020 there will be more than 200,000 people living with some form of sensory impairment in Essex, the largest population of any county in the UK.

As a result, Essex Cares – which works with local authorities and health partners to provide social care services – is now running sensory awareness training for businesses and organisations to help their employees communicate with people affected by sensory impairments and develop an understanding of the conditions.

Three trainers who are all living with an impairment themselves will deliver the new service, using their experience to provide support across the county.

Equipped

Service manager Faye Gatenby said: "The county already has one of the highest populations of people with sensory impairments across the UK but as it continues to increase with an ageing population it's really important organisations are equipped and confident enough to communicate with every single member of the community, irrespective of the impairment they may have."

Although the training is of particular benefit to people working in healthcare settings such as GP surgeries and hospitals, it is also suitable for businesses looking to improve customer service expertise, including supermarkets, banks and high street retailers.

"The fact that the training is delivered by people who live with these impairments on a daily basis is our unique selling point, because you can experience it first-hand and practice the communication skills we're teaching."

Essex Cares runs the Hub@Harlow centre in Pyenest Road which supports adults with learning, physical, sensory and mental needs to remain active in the community.

For more information, call Essex Cares on 01245 256380 or email sensoryservices@essexcares.org.

Candidates quizzed on policies and promises

William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

ALL seven of Harlow's parliamentary hopefuls shared a stage for a lively 90-minute election debate.

St Paul's Church in the town centre was filled for Thursday's hustings meeting which was organised by Heart4Harlow and chaired by town chaplain Rev Robert Findlay.

The candidates – Robert Halfon (Conservative), Suzy Stride (Labour), Geoff Seeff (Liberal Democrat), Sam Stopplecamp (Ukip), Murray Sackwild (Green), Eddy Butler (English Democrats) and Dave Brown (TUSC) – were given a minute each to introduce themselves to the audience before answering a series of pre-submitted questions.

They were then allowed a further minute to sum up their campaigns.

During the course of the evening the candidates were cheered, heckled and booed as they set out the reasons why they believed they should be chosen to represent the town in the House of Commons after May 7.

Robert Halfon, who is fighting to retain the seat for the Conservatives, championed his party's record on the economy, citing figures that showed a cut in the deficit and greater employment.

"The government cut the deficit by half and the best way out of poverty is to create jobs," he said, speaking positively about Conservative plans to increase apprenticeship schemes.

Miss Stride criticised Mr Halfon's voting record in the House of Commons which she described as "appalling" and said: "A stronger economy comes from tackling the cost of living crisis."

Spending

She also outlined Labour's plans to support the NHS, claimed the Conservatives would cut spending on health care and questioned Mr Halfon's statement that he would never support privatisation.

Liberal Democrat Geoff Seeff used the question about the NHS to address his party's promise to invest £2.5bn in mental health services.

He caused a stir among the audience when he said he was "proud" of his party's contribution in the coalition government and concluded: "Look left, look right and vote Liberal Democrat."

Ukip candidate Sam Stopplecamp introduced himself as a life-long Briton and explained his accent was a result of growing up within an American community and attending an American school.

He said his NHS was one of the key policies which required a "common sense" solution, supported Britain's withdrawal from the European Union and added he would like to see 750,000 new homes built in five years.

Murray Sackwild promoted the Green Party's anti-austerity agenda. He criticised zero hour contracts and said the party would not be making any cuts, arguing that only the wealthiest would benefit under a Conservative government.

The issue of immigration was addressed by English Democrat Eddy Butler, who divided opinion by claiming no new houses would be needed if there was a crackdown on the number of people being allowed into the country.

TUSC candidate Dave Brown called for the minimum wage to be increased to £10 and said he would take this as his salary if he was elected as MP.

ED START: Eddie Izzard with Labour candidate Suzy Stride and party supporters

HOUSE CALL: Iain Duncan Smith and Robert Halfon at Harlow Mecca Bingo

COMEDIAN and Labour Party supporter Eddie Izzard was in Harlow on Friday to support the campaign of parliamentary candidate Suzy Stride.

Mr Izzard met Miss Stride and her supporters in the town centre to back her election campaign before heading to The Square where he announced his own intention to run as an MP at the next election in 2020.

"It's good to be back in Harlow and it's great to have The Square," he told the crowd. "I have played some of the toughest gigs of my life here; it is a venue that has the feel of Harlow."

Urging voters to support Miss Stride, he said: "I believe in fairness and that is why I'm a member of the Labour Party. I am doing well now and I want everyone to be doing as well. The NHS is not safe in Tory hands."

"Suzy has energy and a passion for the people of Harlow."

Miss Stride said: "Eddie is here today because he knows that Harlow deserves a better deal. Harlow deserves re-generation, investment, a better NHS and the housing it needs. He knows that is only going to happen through a Labour government."

FORMER Conservative Party leader Iain Duncan Smith showed his abilities as a bingo caller when he visited Harlow on Monday.

The Secretary of State for Work and Pensions visited Mecca Bingo, in Terminus Street, to support Tory candidate Robert Halfon, who last year successfully campaigned for a cut in bingo tax.

Mr Duncan Smith described Mr Halfon as a "formidable" politician, adding: "He has been fantastic and the local people of Harlow could not have a better MP."

Questioned about the Conservatives' plans to introduce thousands of new apprenticeships if they win the election, Mr Duncan Smith said: "Apprenticeships are vital. The reason why Germany is so successful is because of the fantastic practice of appropriate apprenticeships. We have brought in two million in government and we want to carry on."

Mr Halfon said: "It was great to have Iain in Harlow today. I asked him to come to Harlow Mecca Bingo Club because of my successful campaign to cut bingo tax."

"This has meant increased investment in Harlow Mecca Bingo which has over 50,000 members. It also has led to more jobs as the tax cut has enabled the bingo club to employ more people."

ROBERT HALFON Conservative

Five years ago I was honoured to be chosen by fellow residents to become the MP for Harlow and the surrounding villages of Hastingwood, Matching, Nazeing, Roydon and Sheering.

Since being elected in 2010 I have made it my mission to put Harlow on the map. In Parliament I have campaigned to cut fuel prices, curtail hospital parking charges, championed jobs and apprenticeships and helped to ensure that Harlow housing goes to Harlow people.

In 2012 the Daily Telegraph included me in their list of 'Britons of the Year' for my campaign on fuel duty while The Sun called me a "crusader who has fought hard to make sure Brits have more money in their pockets".

For two years I fought hard to bring the new Sir Charles Kao University Technical College to Harlow, which opened in September 2014. It will transform education in Harlow and will help our young residents for generations.

Whenever we have faced major problems in our town – whether it be illegal encampments, the possible closure of our respite centres or the loss of our lollipop men and women – I have stood up against the authorities. Whether it be the Government of the council, I've helped get these problems resolved.

The many residents backing me at this election know I am a man who loves Harlow, stands up for Harlow, and works hard for Harlow. I very much hope you will back me on May 7 and let me be your MP once more.

DAVE BROWN Trade Union & Socialist Coalition

I am 54 and was born in Harlow. I have always worked in youth and community services. I have also been a gardener and am currently working with adults with autism.

The Trade Unionist and Socialist Coalition (TUSC) was formed in 2010 to enable ordinary people to stand in elections.

Over the past 30 years I have seen the closure of youth clubs, play schemes, shops, subsidised leisure facilities and the selling off of our housing stock and green spaces. Benefit sanctions, low pay, high rents and cuts to welfare have forced people into poverty and debt.

I am standing as a candidate because I cannot support a system that forces people to use foodbanks while the super rich get richer.

We are paying for a crisis that we didn't create. Bankers pay themselves millions in bonuses, big businesses avoid tax and our jobs and services are being attacked.

Robert Halfon voted for billions of pounds of public sector cuts, for welfare cuts and the bedroom tax. The Labour Party will continue with austerity and tell us "better our cuts than Tory cuts". They pledge to build homes that Harlow people can't afford to buy.

It is time that ordinary people are listened to and that our needs take priority over rampant greed. The Green Party are an anti-austerity party but they have made cuts and not supported workers whilst in office. They would introduce a living wage by 2020. We demand it now.

VOTERS will not only be electing a Member of Parliament for Harlow when they go the polls on Thursday, May 7.

On the same day they will be casting their votes for councillors in the local elections.

Twelve seats are up for grabs on Harlow Council – one in each of 10 of the town's 11 wards and two in Great Parndon because of a by-election caused by the resignation of sitting Ukip councillor Terry Spooner.

At present the council is run by the Labour Party which holds 18 of the 33 seats. The Conservatives have 11 and Ukip three, with one vacant.

The 32 polling stations around the town will be open from 7am to 10pm, after which the sealed ballot boxes will be taken to Harlow Leisurezone for the count on the afternoon of Friday, May 8.

SUZY STRIDE

Labour

Over the past few years I've knocked on more than 10,000 doors and listened to thousands of residents concerns. The most common thing I have heard is "nothing ever changes".

I know lots of people feel like they have had a government that doesn't work for them, a government that has brought chaos to our NHS and built a Britain based on low pay and zero-hour contracts. Many local people I meet tell me they are struggling to make ends meet while the government tells them everything is fixed and gives a tax cut to millionaires.

Too often people think politicians are here to be Westminster's voice in their community, not the community's voice in Westminster.

As MP for Harlow and the surrounding villages, my number one priority will be our NHS. Labour would employ enough doctors, nurses and midwives to fix the crisis in Harlow's NHS.

We'll tackle the housing crisis by building homes and ending rip-off letting fees. We'll ban exploitative zero-hour contracts and incentivise a Living Wage. We'll provide 25 hours free childcare to working parents and deliver more apprenticeships to get young people into higher skilled jobs.

If the people of Harlow, Roydon, Hastingwood, Nazeing and Sheering put their trust in me on the May 7 I make one simple pledge - I will always be straight with them. I'll always be Harlow's voice in Westminster and never Westminster's voice in Harlow. The stakes are high and I'm raring to go.

GEOFF SEEFF

Liberal Democrat

As a long-standing Liberal Democrat, I am proud of the role my party has played in government.

On realising the disastrous state of the economy that was Labour's legacy we acted responsibly, helping reduce the deficit fairly by moderating the Tories' planned spending cuts that would have hit the most vulnerable.

It was the Liberal Democrats who delivered the increase in personal tax allowances saving workers £825 a year, introduced the "pupil premium" to schools where children were falling behind, secured a real rise in state pensions, established the Green Investment Bank focused on energy efficient technologies and extended personal freedoms.

And we are promising much more - further increases in personal allowances, an additional annual £8bn for the NHS, promoting preventive health programmes such as dietary and exercise regimes, screening and remote digital monitoring; an additional £2.5bn allocated to mental health care especially for pregnant and post-natal women experiencing depression and in-school counselling services.

I believe coalition government is strong government because it enables the widest range of interests to be represented whilst avoiding two party "pendulum" politics.

You can't vote for a coalition but each vote for the Liberal Democrats adds weight to the call for a government to balance responsibility with fairness.

SAM STOPPLECAMP

Ukip

This election is not about me, it is about a change for the better, it is about the residents of Harlow and doing the right thing for them.

Many times you have voted for the political class and got the same promises, promises and more promises.

If you vote for me you will get an average person trying to do the right thing for the voters, the people of our town - you, the people of Harlow.

These are my four headline policies: we will invest in the NHS, control our borders, spend here not abroad and introduce a fairer tax system.

This is the time for change and this is the time to make your vote count.

Being a family man, my pride and joy are my four daughters and my goal is to ensure that they have a future in this our great country.

Having lived and worked in Harlow for many years, it is my passion to drive change to the benefit of the residents of Harlow.

A vote for UKIP is a vote for that change. 2015 is the year for that change. I am not a typical politician so your help is needed to assist me to improve our community, our town and our lives.

A vote for Sam Stopplecamp is a vote for change. A vote for UKIP is a vote for the people of Harlow.

MURRAY SACKWILD

Green

I have worked in Harlow for the past 14 years, for 13 as a head of year, later as head of the humanities faculty at Mark Hall Academy and more recently as a supply teacher, mostly at Passmores Academy.

For the last eight years I have also been general secretary of Harlow and Epping Forest NUT supporting 1,100 teachers in the local area.

My vision for Harlow is one of hope and prosperity where proper jobs, with proper pay and proper hours, will be provided by well-supported local small businesses as well as by larger national and multinational companies which contribute their taxes in full.

I want a town with plentiful low cost public transport and a well-funded hospital with well-funded, locally accountable schools. Obviously I want a town with green spaces protected from exploitation and unnecessary development.

I want to see an end to the politics of fear and blame. I oppose the xenophobic policies of some parties and support a society where all citizens can contribute positively.

The choice for Harlow is relatively simple - austerity or not austerity. The main parties offer different versions of the same austerity brand. The Green Party offers a boosted economy via fair taxation, living wages and investment as part of a programme of anti-austerity measures.

As the Green MP for Harlow I would pledge to work for the common good. My votes in Parliament would depend not on party whips but on the needs of the people who elected me.

EDDY BUTLER

English Democrats

I am a 52-year-old father who lives in Loughton and often visits Harlow for shopping, leisure and work.

What marks the English Democrats out from all the other parties is that we favour the creation of an English Parliament. England is the poor relation in the UK.

This issue is likely to become of increasing importance with more and more resources poured into Scotland and Wales at our expense. England has no voice to correct that imbalance.

I think it is a disgrace that visitors and patients have to pay to park at Princess Alexandra Hospital. In Scotland, patients do not have to pay to park in hospital car parks.

We are also totally opposed to membership of the European Union and desire that we regain our freedom.

I am totally opposed to any new large-scale housing developments in the Harlow area. These developments will only put extra pressure on the existing infrastructure - on the roads, the water supply, sewage, schools and health services.

The only reason for the excessive demand for housing is due to the open door immigration policy operated by successive governments which is drastically increasing the population of our already overcrowded island. Obviously it is necessary to leave the EU in order to stop this immigration.

Harlow has historically been a hub for research and development and innovation. We must build on this tradition to provide well-paid secure jobs, not minimum wage service jobs and zero-hour contract jobs.

We were proud to play for our school

A COUPLE of weeks ago we printed this photo of Mark Hall School's sixth form rugby team taken during a tour of south Wales in the 1970s and asked if anyone could identify the players in the line-up. One of them is Howard Beaumont, who got in touch with a detailed response in which he not only names many of the team but also recalls the time. Here is what he has to say:

I am bottom right in the picture. I can still name most of the players from this team although some were from the year above me.

It was a great time and I treasure those memories. Mr Price (he will always be Mr Price to me and many others) was key to our rugby success as a technical teacher (did he mention we beat all the Welsh teams on our tour?). I applaud his tenacity and hope it bears fruit. He has a mountain to climb.

Back in the '70s the ethic was different, the government took a more rounded view of education. We never paid for transport or after school clubs and teachers used to give up their time freely. Our parents rarely supported us physically in any other way than washing our kit (they were too busy earning a crust) but they knew the importance of belonging to something and encouraged us to do the same by kicking us out the door on a Saturday morning to walk to the bus.

The will to win was bred into us at an early age academically and physically.

We competed in houses at my primary school and by the age of nine we were proud to represent it outside on the football pitch, in the swimming pool or on the netball and hockey pitches, knowing that the rest of the school was behind us.

We couldn't get enough sport: if we weren't playing for the school we were playing at the park. We used to organise football, cricket and rounders games in the school holidays with other estates off our own bat.

I remember walking all the way down the main road from Old Harlow to the rec at Sheering on a couple of occasions. Some of our team members had walked from Ladyshot.

We played sport all summer thanks to the free play scheme and although I'm sure they worried, our parents were not terrified and cloistering like the parents of today, indoctrinated as they are by the climate of fear peddled by the media and government.

In short, the government used inclusiveness not division as a social control mechanism and that is what people like Mr

Price are really fighting for: What a great team that was and what an education.

■ Another reader who got in touch was Trevor Gibson, who wrote: "Lovely to see a photo of old school mates.

"Although I wasn't featured it contained members of upper and lower sixth (my year)."

LAST WEEK'S PHOTOGRAPH

Rachel remembers protest

THIS picture which appeared in last week's Where Are They Now? feature stirred the memory of one reader, who recognised herself in then photo taken back in the later 1990s.

Rachel Kitchen, now 23, is the young girl who is pictured second from the left holding up the word 'Maunds'.

The picture was snapped by one of the Star's photographers at a demonstration by staff, parents and pupils protesting at the closure of Maunds Wood Primary School.

It was taken in 1999 but the protest proved unsuccessful as the school closed a year later.

Ms Kitchen, who now lives in Wood Green, north London, also identified her sister Hannah on the right of the photograph.

"I remember travelling to Chelmsford to go to County Hall and protest with other children, their parents and members of the school parent-teacher association to try and stop the closure of our school," she said.

"I also remember a clown coming too, I think his name was Mike and he made balloon animals."

Rachel added: "Me and my sister both ended up finishing primary school at Millwards Primary School."

Doctors would tell me that it was in my head

Alieshia hopes to raise awareness of Ehlers-Danlos Syndrome

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertsessexnews.co.uk

WHEN Alieshia Cross learned that one of her good friends Ruth was in hospital, she felt compelled to act.

Alieshia, from Harlow, and Ruth both suffer from Ehlers-Danlos Syndrome, EDS is a genetic connective tissue condition that can affect the body's joints, tendons, ligaments, blood vessels, organs and bones.

Alieshia has started a social media campaign using the hashtag RuthLives to raise awareness of the condition and raise money for Ehlers Danlos Support UK.

"I have a lot of hypermobile joints," Alieshia explained, "So that means my joints move further than they should and I dislocate my joints really easily."

"Last month I was just brushing my teeth and I completely dislocated my jaw. And I have a lot of internal involvement with my EDS as well so it affects my bladder and my bowels."

"It also affects my heart rate as well as I have an associated syndrome called POTS that Ruth also has as well."

"POTS is a syndrome that causes your heart rate to increase by 30 beats or more when you stand up so when I'm sitting or standing my heart beats like crazy so in my testing it showed that my heart was beating at 173 beats per minute just sitting down in the car."

"It makes you really breathless and you get lots of horrible symptoms with that as well." Cognitive behaviour therapist Alieshia, 31, who lives in Summers with her husband Barry, was only diagnosed with the condition in September 2014 and says this is because of a lack of understanding of the condition and it's symptoms.

"I only got diagnosed last September but I had lots of different diagnoses," she said.

"Initially I was diagnosed with IBS (irritable bowel syndrome) as well as lots of other things. Lots of doctors tried to tell me it was anxiety and it was all in my head."

Irony

"They tried to send me for therapy all sorts of things which is ironic because I'm actually a CBT therapist myself so I was pretty sure it wasn't all in my head."

"So I'm relatively newly diagnosed but I've had problems since birth. I was born with bowel problems so I've had problems all of my life."

Lara Bloom, Chief Operations Officer at the charity EDS UK which support patients with the condition, explained: "EDS can affect everyone in a similar way but they can present in different ways. The main symptoms you see are chronic pain, fatigue, gastrointestinal and autonomic issues."

"There are six different types of the condition and quite a few of them reside in the rare disease world where the condition affects one in 25-35,000 people."

"There's the life-limiting types such as vascular and the life expectancy for that is anywhere between 30 and 40 years old," said Ms Bloom. "We do have patients that are living longer than that and passing away younger."

"The hypermobility type, which is the most prevalent at the moment is said to affect one in 5,000 people but clinical studies show us that actually it's much more prevalent than that and it could be as common as one in 1,000 people but people are massively missed and under-diagnosed because it's so multi-systemic. If you got to the doctor and you have pains in your knees, or your joints and you're also a bit dizzy when you stand up or you have IBS as well, a doctor rarely puts that picture all together."

The condition is caused by a defect in the body's collagen but only in rare versions of EDS is it known what causes this defect.

Ms Bloom explained: "We know what that defect is for the rare types but we have yet to discover what the defect is in the most prevalent type which makes that diagnosis so much harder. So it's not as simple as going to have a skin sample or a blood test. It is reliant on the doctor's knowledge and awareness of the condition and that's what's lacking and that's what we're trying to do."

When Ruth was taken in hospital classically trained singer Alieshia, who sometimes uses a wheelchair to get around, asked her for the name of

EDS fact file

- EDS is a genetic connective tissue condition that is a multi-systemic syndrome.
- Vascular EDS is a distinct type of EDS caused by faulty collagen III.
- It is a rare condition and therefore many health professionals will not have seen someone with this diagnosis.
- People with EDS have a tendency to bruise very easily because the blood vessels are more fragile
- Some of the symptoms of EDS are fragile blood vessels which can lead to major complications including rupture of blood vessels, hypermobility of the small joints, partial collapse of the lung, gum problems such as bleeding or receding gums, and thin skin which makes small blood vessels visible on the upper chest and legs.

her favourite song. Alieshia has since recorded I Live by One Republic.

"I want to respect Ruth's privacy so I don't want to say too much," Alieshia explained. "She is in hospital at the moment and has been for quite a while. That's why I wanted to start the Ruth Lives campaign because I just was chatting to her and I said, 'I'd love to record a song for you, what's your favourite song?' and she told me."

Awareness

"Then I thought well if I'm going to record this song for Ruth and put it on YouTube I might as well raise awareness for EDS as well because that's the best way I can help her."

"She told me her favourite song was I live by One Republic and I must admit I wasn't that familiar with the song so I stayed up and learned it in 12 hours."

The condition is regularly misdiagnosed like in Alieshia's case and Ms Bloom says this is having a massive impact on patient's quality of life.

She said: "There's a really vast spectrum; there's people walking around and dare I say it, can be just a bit bendy and they get a bit tired now and then but there's also the other end of the spectrum where people are TPN fed and bed-bound, in wheelchairs and really very severely ill."

"And then there's people that kind sit in the middle but their life is really affected by this and awareness is key in delivering that message because people aren't getting the physiotherapy they need, the treatment they need."

She added: "It is a genetic condition and the symptoms can be there from birth though sometimes it doesn't present itself till later."

Clues

"But there are signs and clues there."

"If we get these people mobile and active and getting their muscles doing the things their tissues can't you're going to have a very different experience growing up with this condition."

"We've got people being diagnosed in their 30s, 40s and 50s and it's too late. You've got a de-conditioned body that's absolute agony to live with and it's too painful to be able to fix the problems that are there and that's just not good enough."

So what does the future hold for Alieshia? She is hoping to go back to work and continue to raise awareness of the condition.

"It's the only way I can a life before I had it I was housebound so since I've got my diagnosis now doctors realise it's not in my head I've been given a wheelchair so I can actually go out I have to have somebody push me because I can self-propel but I can go to the shops and I can see the outside world. I can go places with my husband."

"I have done my joints a lot of damage where I've been told by doctors to just push through the pain because I didn't have the right diagnosis so I have done a lot of damage but I hope to get back to work one day as a CBT because that's my passion but I'm too poorly at the moment so I'm having hypermobility physiotherapy at the moment and that's going well."

Coping with Bereavement

Helping you cope at a difficult time

WHEN someone close to you dies, it can be a distressing and overwhelming experience to say the least – even if his or her death was expected.

Coping with bereavement is one of life's major challenges. The death of someone close can leave us feeling desperately sad, lost and abandoned. Everyone experiences grief in their own personal way.

There is no typical journey, no fixed length of time and no set pattern to the emotions you may be going through and it's important to get the support you require at this difficult time.

Planning and talking about death might not be easy, but realistically, death is a part of life.

Ignoring it doesn't make it go away and if we avoid planning for it, it doesn't really help anybody.

When death does come, being unprepared can make the experience a lot more challenging, both for ourselves and for those we leave behind.

In fact, once you've prepared for death, you may even feel a new sense of freedom and a resolve to live every day of your life to the fullest.

No one ever wants to organise a funeral, but when the inevitable happens, it is reassuring to know that there are experts who can make the process as easy as possible.

Until we find ourselves responsible for making funeral arrangements or helping someone with that responsibility, we often do not realise how many practical tasks there are to do when someone dies.

Your local funeral director can tailor a funeral service to meet you and your family's wishes and help guide you through the process.

They can support you and ensure the funeral meets your wishes and those of the deceased, making it a celebration of life and a fitting farewell as well as complying with any legal requirements too.

Many funeral directors may also be willing to help with arranging a lasting memorial for your loved one.

Do not be afraid of crying or showing emotion. Tears relieve emotional stress and there is nothing to be ashamed of.

Most people have times when they feel anger or guilt. Talking about these feelings with a close friend or member of the family may help you.

Recycling project now part of the furniture

A VICTORIAN chaise longue, 583 coffee filters and a plaster waiter called Dave are among the items donated to a furniture recycling project.

However, as it approaches its second anniversary, there is far more to Epping Forest Reuse than second-hand furniture.

Its chief aims are to prevent items from going to landfill and to help those in need. Although aimed primarily at people living in Waltham Abbey, Nazeing, Roydon and Harlow, anyone can donate or buy with discounts for those on income-based benefits.

Project manager Michael Kushin cited the example of one man who had been homeless and living on the streets for two years when he was given custody of his children. He secured accommodation in a council flat and was given a £50 voucher for furnishings.

"We filled a van with a fridge, a cooker, a TV - everything he needed for his kids," said Mr Kushin. "I feel like I am really helping people"

The project also benefits volunteers, helping them to build confidence in a working environment.

Donations are often upcycled, given some attention to create something new with some added decoration or renovation.

"It's a chance for people to discover their artistic side, said Mr

Kushin. "It's amazing what can be achieved."

When the group received a donation of unused paint, volunteers created an advert on the project's building in Bower Hill, Epping, while a consignment of 500 roof tiles was used as hard core for a ramp to improve access.

Among some of the stranger donations have been a plaster waiter and four sets of pink wardrobes. One of the most popular items with customers are tea services.

Mr Kushin added: "We are more than just a second-hand furniture shop."

Memoirs paint a picture of life as a WW2 evacuee

Chance meeting sparked Jim's love of art

Jo O'Reilly
star@hertsexnews.co.uk

AN artist from Old Harlow who was evacuated from London during the Second World War has written about his experiences.

Jim Peel, 83, has put down on paper his memories of the time when, as a young boy, he was moved away from Hackney to live in Sawbridgeworth.

Mr Peel, of Priory Avenue, was eight years old when he was evacuated from the East End. In the 40 pages of Jimmy Peel: Evacuated 1939-1945 he presents a vivid and affectionate account of his new life living with 'Granny Turner' in Station Road.

His memories of that period are a colourful description of life in the countryside, going camping with the Scouts at High Wych, performing in a pantomime and encounters with ghosts.

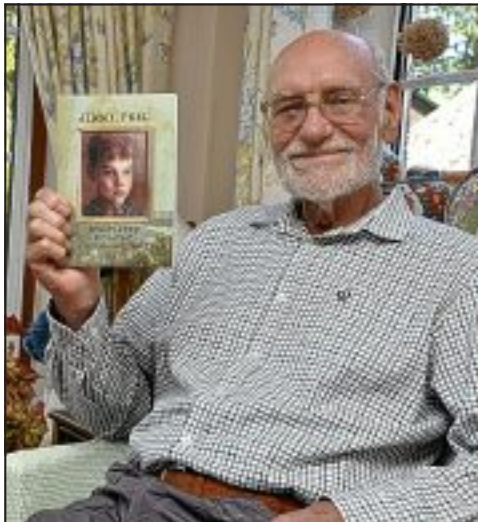

During his time as an evacuee he took on a Saturday job as a gardener and a chance meeting with Anthony Devas, a renowned landscape and portrait artist, sparked his interest in painting which was to have a major and long-lasting impact on his life.

"I met him floating around in the gardens and I was fascinated from day one," said Mr Peel, who in his book describes how the artist painted his portrait, sitting him on the sideboard and setting up a ladies' dressing mirror so that he could watch him at work.

Devas' portrait of Mr Peel was exhibited in London and was published in the The Listener magazine in October 1941. It now graces the front cover of Mr Peel's book.

After the war Mr Peel returned to school in London but moved back to Harlow during the early years of the new town.

After working for the police, he took a part-time handyman position at the former Brays Grove School following his retirement in 1968. However, he never lost his love of painting.

He has been running his weekly Art A Peel class at St John's Arts and Recreation Centre, in St John's Walk off Market Street, since 1994.

"I've been teaching watercolours and drawing for about 20 years there now," he said. "All these lovely people come along and let me tell them what to do. We then have two exhibitions a year."

The next exhibition opens at the ARC on Tuesday (April 21) and runs until to Friday, May 1.

Meanwhile, Mr Peel will be on hand to chat about the memoirs and sign copies of his illustrated memoirs on Sunday afternoon from 2.30-5pm. Copies of Jimmy Peel: Evacuated 1939-1945 are available from the ARC.

Fashion sale raises £2k for hospice

A BRAND new pair of Karen Millen shoes for £45 and a never-worn Karen Millen dress for £50 were two of the bargains snapped by shoppers during a fashion sale which raised almost £2,000 was raised for St Clare Hospice.

The items were sold at the hospices' boutique shop in Buckhurst Hill customers where customers were able to buy second-hand fashion items for a fraction of their original retail price.

"There were so many bargains to be had," said shop manager Jan Cutts. "As always we are very grateful to our customers for the brilliant donations they give to support their favourite charity."

Awards success for funeral firm

Company praised for high standards of service

AN award-winning firm of funeral directors has been named as one of the winners in this year's Funeral Planner of the Year awards.

Daniel Robinson & Sons, which has offices at Wych Elm in Harlow, won the East of England regional award.

Run by funeral plan provider Golden Charter, the awards recognise high standards of service and care by the UK independent funeral directors.

Firms are judged on providing a customer focused approach and using their local knowledge and professional approach to ensure families receive the best possible service.

It is the sixth time in 12 years that Daniel Robinson & Sons has received the award.

Managing director Gary Neill said: "We are delighted as we offer the highest standards of service with honesty and integrity at all times."

"We would always recommend that if you are considering taking out a funeral plan you visit the local funeral directors' premises before you make a decision, always read the small print and remember, not all funeral directors are the same."

The company has been presented with a framed certificate and a cash prize. In addition, the Woodland Trust has dedicated trees which are to be planted locally in recognition of the company's achievement.

Halfway homes to cut need for long-term care

A PROJECT to reduce the number of people going into long-term care will see four halfway houses established across Essex where people can recover from illness or injury before returning to their own homes.

Essex County Council has signed four three-year contracts for the "re-ablement units"—one of which will be in Harlow—following a successful trial proved it could dramatically cut the number of people going straight from a hospital bed into long-term care.

Up to 800 residents a year will be able to stay in the homes for up to six weeks where they will get support to tackle everyday tasks like preparing food, managing their medications, shopping and laundry, in a bid to prepare them for life in their own homes.

More than 30,000 people in Essex currently receive social care but that figure is expected to rocket as more people are living into their nineties.

Boy's dinosaur discovery

TAKE YOUR PICK: Above, five-year-old Wiley Brys who found the dinosaur bone. Right, an artist's drawing of a Nodosaur

WHEN a five-year-old boy went on a fossil hunting trip with his dad in the American town of Mansfield, little did they know they were about to create headline news around the world.

For as the pair started digging in the dirt on a piece of land behind a shopping centre, they discovered what experts believe are the rare 100 million-year-old remains of a pony-sized dinosaur called a Nodosaur.

Zookeeper Tim Brys had taken his son, Wiley, to the site in the state of Texas because he hoped to find some fish fossils. "We commonly go collecting fossils as something we can do together to be outside," said Mr Brys. "Wiley enjoys coming with me on my trips."

After digging around in the dirt and finding a few small fossils, Wiley made a far more astonishing discovery. "He walked up ahead of me and found a piece of bone," Mr Brys told the local newspaper. "It was a pretty good size and I knew it was something interesting."

According to scientists at Southern Methodist University, what Wiley had found were rare dinosaur bones which they estimated dated back 100 million years.

Mr Brys and Wiley made their discovery in September last year but it is only now that permission has been given for the bones to be excavated.

"My dad told me it was a turtle," Wiley told reporters, "but now he's telling me it's a dinosaur."

GARDENING

Growing your own tomatoes

If you're growing outdoor tomatoes from seed, sow a few seeds on a sunny windowsill now to give yourself a head start.

If you only want a few plants, sow a couple of seeds in each 8cm (3in) pots of compost on a sunny windowsill, removing the weaker seedling after germination, which takes about a fortnight. Keep them moist but not wet at about 18C (65F).

Plant out into growing bags, pots or border soil when the seedlings are 15-20cm (6-8in) tall and the flowers of the first truss are beginning to open. Water the pot before planting out and ensure the top of the soil ball is below the soil surface.

Tomatoes, it has to be said, are high maintenance plants, requiring consistent watering and protection from frost, often being ruined by blight.

Jobs for this week

■ As fresh shoots appear on herbaceous perennials, stake them early with pea sticks and small branches to lessen the chance of damage.

■ Ventilate cold frames and greenhouses on sunny days to encourage sturdy plant growth

■ Feed shrubs, trees, new hedges and fruit bushes as necessary

■ Ensure pots of permanent plantings that were sheltered over the winter haven't dried out

■ Begin mowing the lawn, making sure the mower blades are sharp and are set high to only remove the top 1-3cm on the first cut

■ Fill in gaps in the border with annuals, herbs or cheap and cheerful perennials such as lupins

■ Plant summer-flowering bulbs such as tigrisias 5-8cm deep and 10-15cm apart in a sunny, well-drained position

■ If you are doing hanging baskets, plant them up now so that the plants will have filled out by the time you put them out, but remember to keep them somewhere light and warm such as a porch or greenhouse, until the weather warms up and all danger of frost has passed

Being creative on a budget

THINKING OUT OF THE POT: Geraniums in tins attached to a fence make for an original and eye-catching garden feature

You don't have to spend a fortune to have a beautiful garden, says thrifty gardener and writer Alex Mitchell. She offers tips on how to create a garden on a budget

I'm the first to admit I've made costly mistakes in my garden over the years. I've planted specimens in the wrong place, made impulse buys at the garden centre of impractical plants which weren't going to survive in the frost pocket where I live and bought pretty pots that didn't go with my house or my existing collection.

But now I've opened gardener Alex Mitchell's new book, Gardening On A Shoestring, which gives budget-conscious gardeners some ideas on how to save money, all that waste is in the past.

"We've all done it – stumped up on plants, tools and endless bits of plastic kit and then thrown them at the garden in the hope that they will miraculously organise themselves into something beautiful," she says. But you don't need all that clutter to be a successful gardener.

Here's a few of her tips on how to create a garden on a budget:

■ Make seedy savings: Many plants grow easily from seed, including sweet peas, cosmos, flowering tobacco, cornflowers and Californian poppy. A packet containing around 100 seeds can cost you a fifth of the price of one plant. From mid-spring to early summer, just scatter them directly on to finely-raked garden soil in a sunny spot, rake them in and water well.

■ Club together: If you're buying online, group your purchases with friends to save on postage costs and look out for bargains if you order a multiple of one specific plant.

■ Garden centre or car boot?: Don't rule out cut-price pound stores and car boot sales, which often have good plants for much less. When buying plants, don't buy the ones already in full flower. Look for those with unopened flower buds or wait until the end of summer to buy shrubs and perennials, when garden centres discount their stock. Autumn is also a good time for planting.

■ Pots for a pittance: Use your imagination. Upcycle old containers such as tins, bowls and colanders to give your garden instant character. If you want to go big and brazen, brightly coloured plastic tub trugs can make good flower and fruit containers. Alternatively, ask your local deli for huge empty tins which have held olive oil, or other vintage tins, taking off the labels and letting them rust naturally. Just drill holes in the bottom of them.

■ Be waterwise: Instead of investing in an expensive automatic irrigation system for your potted plants, save your old one-litre plastic bottles, discard the lid, cut off the base of the bottle and push it lid end down into the compost beside your plant. When the bottle doesn't fall over, it's deep enough. Fill it with water and it will drip out gradually, direct to the plant roots.

■ Thrifty Topiary: If you want to recreate the effect of topiaries box, use a different plant. Ilex crenata, or Japanese holly, looks almost the same as box and can be pruned in the same way, but tends to be more affordable and won't suffer from box blight, a disease which can wipe out box in a flash.

■ Hedge your bets: If you want to create a hedge, take advantage of bare-root offers at the end of the planting season (which runs from winter to early spring). Good offers tend to come up towards the end of winter when nurseries are trying to get rid of their bare-root stock.

■ Pave the way: If your urban garden has an old concrete path you want to renew on a shoestring, be warned that the cost of breaking it up and removing it may be high. If the concrete is sound, you can lay paving stones on top of it, or alternatively use tiles, laying them on a layer of mortar or a resin bonding adhesive.

CHEAP AND EASY: Use plants like cosmos and nasturtiums in old boxes and containers to create a striking look in your garden

Gardening On A Shoestring by Alex Mitchell is published by Kyle, priced £16.99.

It's National Gardening Week, so Clare Youell pays a visit to Hyde Hall, near Chelmsford, one of just four Royal Horticultural Society gardens nationally opening its gates free for this week of horticultural celebration

Garden INSPIRATION

If you're looking for some green-fingered inspiration, get yourself down to RHS Garden Hyde Hall, near Chelmsford. The venue has a range of events, talks and demonstrations to mark National Gardening Week so there's something for everyone.

The main event is the Spring Gardening and Wildlife Weekend from Saturday, April 18 to Sunday, April 19 which aims to get the whole family growing. There will be a wide range of demonstrations and talks where gardeners of all levels can pick up some top tips and chat to the experts.

Don't miss the chance to stock up on every kind of plant imaginable at the Essex Plant Heritage Spring Fair. There will be representatives of more than 30 specialist nurseries from around the region setting up shop in the gardens, selling more than 500 unusual plants, ranging from alpinas and herbs to roses and salvias. All exhibitors will be offering free advice on plant selection so they can advise if you're thinking of making some changes to your garden or adding in a few rare species.

If you need some inspiration as the summer approaches, Hyde Hall staff are putting on a demonstration called What To Do In Your Garden Now? at 11am and 2pm.

You can also get some tips on how to look after and encourage wildlife in your garden with talks from the Royal Society for the Protection of Birds, the Bumble Bee Conservation Trust, the Essex Wildlife Trust and Hyde Hall's very own resident bee-keeper.

So whether you're a budding horticulturist or just simply like fresh air and natural beauty, the Spring Fair gives you the opportunity to celebrate the very best the season has to offer and the opportunity to take home some ideas to try for yourself.

Your kids will be kept busy too as they can make animal pictures from seeds and grass heads from sawdust at the Essex Wildlife Trust stall.

Little ones will also love the birds of prey display where they can meet and greet a buzzard, peregrine falcon and some owls. Children can hold one of the birds between 11am-noon and 1.30pm-2.30pm, ask their keeper questions and have their photo taken.

THE CRUCIBLE BY HARLOW THEATRE COMPANY

VICTORIA HALL THEATRE, Old Harlow
Thursday, April 16 - Saturday, April 18
£11 (£9 concessions)
Directed by Paul Johnson, Arthur Miller's classic play inspired by the McCarthy hearings in the USA in the 1950s is set during the Salem witch trials in Massachusetts in the 1600s. In a small tight-knit community, personal grievances collide with lust and superstition, fuelling widespread hysteria. Miller's timeless parable attacks the evils of mindless persecution and the terrifying power of false accusations.

THE NUTCRACKER BY HARLOW BALLET ASSOCIATION

HARLOW PLAYHOUSE
Thursday, April 16 - Sunday, April 19
£7-£14

Returning to the Playhouse with the most charming ballet ever choreographed, Harlow Ballet presents their hugely popular performance of The Nutcracker. Join Clara as she defeats King Rat and travels with her own prince to the magical land of the Snow Queen and Kingdom of Sweets. With beautiful music, traditional costumes and sets, and much of the original 1892 choreography, this really is a show for all the family.

DUKE ELLINGTON'S SUCH SWEET THUNDER

ST JOHN'S ARC, Market Street, Old Harlow
Saturday, April 18
£15 (£12 concessions)

The rarely performed 12-part suite inspired by Shakespeare will be the main item in an all Ellington concert by Michael Kilpatrick's orchestra Harmony In Harlem.

A JOURNEY TO ABSTRACTION

THE GALLERY, Parndon Mill
Thursday, April 9 - Sunday, May 17
Free

The work of artist John Pollard take centre stage for the next exhibition at The Gallery at Parndon Mill, which is behind Harlow Rugby Club off Elizabeth Way in Harlow. A Journey To Abstraction opens on Thursday, April 9, and features Pollard's earlier work leading to contemporary paintings and photographs. "This exhibition starts with a few older figurative paintings and progresses through to pieces of complex abstraction painted in recent months," Pollard explained. The gallery is open Tuesday to Friday, 10am to 5pm, and Sundays 2pm to 4pm.

A TIME TO REMEMBER: LOOKING BACK 100 YEARS

GIBBERD GALLERY, Civic Centre, Harlow
Monday April 20 at 2pm-4pm and 6.30pm-8.30pm.
Free

Inclusive drama group Razed Roof are looking for people to share their stories of the First World War. Razed Roof, with the support of the Heritage Lottery Fund, is running two open meetings, A Time to Remember: Looking Back 100 Years, at the Gibberd Gallery where, over a cup of tea and a slice of cake, people are invited to share their tales. Life was different and those years from 1914 - 1918 challenged both those who lived in the cities and the countryside. Razed Roof is also looking for local connections for its next production Lusitania: The Floating Palace.

OOH la la! The circus is coming to town

THE nerve-tingling spectacle of motorcyclists looping the loop in a tiny steel sphere will be one of the acts which will be entertaining audiences in Harlow later this month when a French circus rolls into town.

Family-run Santus Circus will be presenting a new all-human production of their traditional-style show over the forthcoming Bank Holiday weekend.

Brothers Ernest and Roger Santus are members of some of France's most illustrious circus families. Taking on almost every sort of skill and presentation from hand-balancing and trapeze to unicycling, juggling and acrobatics, they've performed across Europe and in Asia, winning top prizes at the prestigious Monte Carlo Circus Festival.

The two-hour shows feature artistes from Brazil, Mongolia, Romania, Italy, the Czech Republic, Britain and France.

Among the acts are high wire, knife-throwing, juggling, trapeze, plate-spinning, rope-walking, whip-cracking and, of course, clowns. One of the highlights is the Globe of Death - motorcyclists looping the loop inside a tiny steel sphere.

The circus will be at the Showground in Harlow Town Park from Wednesday, April 29 to Monday, May 4. Ticket prices start at £9 (£7 for all seats for the Wednesday performance) while a family ticket (two adults and two children) costs just £40.

For full details or to book, call 07843 884787 or 07952 418487, or visit www.santuscircus.co.uk.

COUNTDOWN to music fest is on!

HERE are just over two weeks to go until this year's Stortford Music Festival gets under way. Now celebrating its 15th year, the event has grown significantly since it began thanks to the generous support of the area's businesses and organisations.

The main sponsors of this year's festival are Harlow College and Stortford estate agents The Personal Property Shop.

This is the second year that Harlow College has supported the two-day festival, which will take place at St Mary's Catholic School on May 2 and 3.

Simon Boyce, head of marketing and communication at the college explained: "A number of our students were already involved in Stortfest, both planning and performing and we wanted to support them."

"Around 10 per cent of our students come from Bishop's Stortford and the surrounding area so the town is very much part of the college community."

Students will be involved in a number of ways over the weekend, from performing to looking after the younger guests.

The college will host its own 'Introducing' stage where many of its students will showcase their musical talents throughout the festival.

"We have some really talented students and showcasing their skills is the very best advert for the college," said Simon.

"The opportunity to play at real venues in front of a live audience is the most effective way to develop performance skills as well as build confidence. You never know, they may only be a couple of years away from filling the O2 Arena!"

Simon added: "The festival is also a great opportunity for our students to gain real work experience and develop skills that you can't teach in the classroom."

"Our hospitality students will be catering for the crowds with a hog roast and our childcare students will be running activities for the younger festival goers. We will also have students helping with marketing activities and logistics."

The Personal Property Shop was founded by mother and daughter team Angela and Hilary Westgarth.

With a wealth of experience in sales, marketing and customer service the pair say they are "bringing the personal touch to the world of property sales".

Company director Angela said: "We wanted to get involved with Stortford Music Festival because it's an amazing local event that really brings the community together. I went along to the festival last year and thought it was totally fantastic, so I determined to get stuck in next time."

"The Personal Property Shop team is really looking forward to getting involved and having the chance to meet lots of people in our community."

Festival organisers Twig and Annabel said: "We're incredibly grateful to both Harlow College and The Personal Property Shop for their support this year. We always strive to put on the best show we possibly can and this simply would not be possible without the backing of our wonderful sponsors."

"The final finishing touches for the event are now being put into place and we look forward to welcoming festival-goers for what is set to be another great weekend of live music."

This year's Stortford Music Festival will feature more than 80 acts across four stages and a dance tent, with headline sets from Toploader and The Undertones.

Also appearing throughout the weekend are Bootleg Blondie, Miles and Erica of The Wonderstuff fame, Uncle Funk and the Boogie Wonderband and many more.

'COME ON, MUM, give me a message!'

WHEN Steve Holbrook was just nine years old, he had a visit from his granddad at 3.55am to tell him he was going away. Young Steve asked: "Where are you going Granddad?", but the old man just told him to tell his mum.

The next day Steve learned his granddad has died at 4am that morning.

For some years, Steve didn't think much of it. That is until he was 16 and he reached over to get a pizza in Tesco and accidentally touched a woman's hand.

Immediately, he heard a voice in his head, loud and clear. It was a man's voice, saying he was called Michael, he had died in September and he wanted to wish Chloe a happy birthday.

When he relayed this to the woman, she burst into tears – she knew exactly who he was talking about. Michael was a relative of hers who had died in September.

This incident sparked a change in Steve as from that moment on he could hear voices, which he says are from the spirit world.

"It got a bit ridiculous after that," Steve admitted. "If I was buying a sandwich and the cashier put the change into my hand, that slight touch would trigger it. It was hard to deal with at first, I didn't know how to switch it off. It took me nine-and-a-half years to learn to control it fully and now I can switch it on and off."

Steve's first career was as a hairdresser and he ended up with his own salon in Leeds city centre. "I was so busy there, but I think a lot of clients were more interested in the messages than they were in having their hair done," he laughed. "There are a lot of hairdressers out there, but mediums are more scarce."

For the last few years of hairdressing, the messages poured in for Steve. He thinks the sudden surge was a gentle push from the spirit world, telling him to make a change. So Steve became a spiritual medium full time and quickly began to sell-out shows in the north.

The word spread and Steve got bookings all over the country. Eventually he started touring the UK and then the States, where he has performed many shows to sold-out auditoriums.

So what actually happens at one of his shows?

"I give an introductory speech, telling the audience a bit about myself and get them to relax," said Steve. "Then when the voices start coming through - I let the audience know that it's starting."

"I hear voices of people and I relay what they are saying to the audience. Then people tell me if they think the message might be for them and I just ask them to answer a few questions."

"I don't like leading people, I tell them just to say yes or no. It is often an emotional rollercoaster for the audience and for me. There are tears and laughter and often both."

"It's an exhilarating feeling for me knowing that these people are receiving messages from their loved ones."

Before his gift became apparent, Steve didn't give much thought to the afterlife, but now he is 100 per cent convinced that life after death exists.

"In most religions, you will hear at a funeral that we survive death and go onto heaven," he said. "Spiritual mediums are here to prove that our loved ones do survive beyond death. Usually, you hear these stories second hand, but for me it's first hand. It is 100 per cent genuine. It was amazing for me to realise that and it took me a long time to get used to it."

Once, during a show, he heard a woman's voice who wanted him to relay a message to her son in the audience. This man approached him after the show to say thank you and to say that he was the son of Doris Stokes, one of the most famous mediums in the UK, who had died five years previously. "That was a real privilege," Steve said.

Another time, Steve had just been speaking to a latecomer, a young lady who he had ushered into the hall so that the show could start. His introductory speech was interrupted by a man from the spirit world called Keith, who insisted on talking to this lady straight away. Keith was her father and she had buried him at 11am that morning.

Steve said that the people who come to his shows are a mixed bunch, of all ages and of varying levels of belief and scepticism.

"Some people look a little worried, some people sit with their arms crossed with an air of 'give me a message if you dare,'" Steve said. "But there are lots of people who sit there thinking 'come on mother, give me a message!'"

■ Steve Holbrook is appearing at Park Inn, Harlow, at 7.30pm on Monday, May 18.

Tickets are £17 by calling the booking line on 08447 404526. Or tickets are £18 on the door. Doors open at 6.30pm for pre-show drinks.

WHAT'S ON:

WE'VE ONLY JUST BEGUN - THE CARPENTERS STORY

HARLOW PLAYHOUSE

Wednesday, April 22

£18-£21

Karen Carpenter was the voice of The Carpenters. Along with her brother Richard, they scored an unprecedented 17 consecutive US top ten hits. The timeless quality of the Carpenters music makes it as relevant today as when they scored their first UK hit with Close To You in 1970. This show is a celebration of The Carpenters' music performed by vocalist Toni Lee with her band and backing singers.

RICHARD HERRING - LORD OF THE DANCE SETTEE

HARLOW PLAYHOUSE

Thursday, April 23

£16

After covering weighty issues like death, love, religion and spam javelins, Richard Herring is in a frivolous mood with this show about daftness, whether the term 'cool comedian' is an oxymoron, bouncing joyously on the sofa and how his whole career is a failed attempt to top a piece of visual slapstick comedy he came up with at 16. Can he revisit the joke 30 years on or will it smash his old bones?

GODS ARE FALLEN AND ALL SAFETY GONE

HARLOW PLAYHOUSE (STUDIO THEATRE)

Thursday, April 23

£6.50-£12 (suitable for ages 14+)

An investigation into what happens when we discover that our parents are flawed human beings and that at some point, sooner than we think, they are suddenly going to disappear from our lives. Intimate and funny, this play presents a lifetime of conversations condensed into one hour.

HOT MIKADO

VICTORIA HALL THEATRE, Old Harlow

Thursday, April 23-Saturday, April 25

£11.50 (£9.50 concessions)

East Herts Operatic Society, whose first production back in 1960 was Gilbert and Sullivan's The Mikado, celebrates its 55th anniversary with three performances of Hot Mikado. Set in 1940s Japan with an added twist of Americana, Hot Mikado tells us of young lover Nanki-Poo who visits the city of Titupu in the guise of a vagabond trumpet player.

OPEN AUDITIONS

PASSMORES ACADEMY, Tracey's Road, Harlow

Wednesday, April 22 at 7.30pm

Harlow Theatre Company is to hold open auditions for its July production of the musical Rent. The show is being staged at The Victoria Hall Theatre, Old Harlow from July 8-11. HTC is looking for actors with vocal and movement ability to play a number of roles including ensemble. The company is also interested to see actors to play the part of Angel (playing age mid 20's) and actresses for the role of Mimi (playing age early 20's). THE BIG INTERVIEW

FILMGUIDE

As she meets Helen Mirren to talk about her latest film, Woman In Gold, Jeanne Craig finds out she's not as confident and self-assured as you might think for a woman with a long and award-winning career in acting

From her note-perfect performances on the big screen to her stylish turns on the red carpet, everything about Dame Helen Mirren oozes confidence. It comes as a surprise then, to learn the 69-year-old, who picked up an Oscar for her portrayal of Elizabeth II in 2006's The Queen, doesn't feel so self-assured.

"I don't really have confidence, honestly," Mirren confesses. "And certainly when I was younger, I was fraught with insecurity, sometimes paralytically so."

The notoriously fickle field of acting isn't the obvious career choice for someone gripped by insecurity, but the star – currently appearing in new film Woman In Gold – believes it was the best move for her as a young woman.

"I think that's why I became an actress – you have to overcome that, you have to fight through it and come out the other side. Also, I think, as you get older, a lot of that anxiety just drops away. And it's a lovely thing."

Mirren, who grew up in Leigh-on-Sea, Essex, turns 70 on July 26 ("it's Mick Jagger's birthday too, and the anniversary of the Cuban revolution – some year I'll have to go there for it"), but she hasn't given the milestone much thought.

"Every day's a milestone. So the fact that it's this particular day, as opposed to a week's time, is totally irrelevant to me. You just roll on through life," says the actress.

As for the 'sexy' tag which so frequently accompanies her name, she regards it as "such an easy, lazy" label.

"We're all so much more complicated than that," she adds. "There are so many different kinds of attractiveness in human beings, in human behaviour. I would like to see that recognised more often."

Indeed, Woman In Gold is more twin sets and pearls than sultry looks, as Mirren plays eighty-something Maria Altmann, an Austrian Jew who was forced to bid farewell to her family and flee Vienna during World War II.

Sixty years later, in the late Nineties, having relocated to Los Angeles, Altmann enlists the help of young lawyer E Randol Schoenberg (Ryan Reynolds) to try and retrieve the family's treasured possessions seized by the Nazis. Among the items is painter Gustav Klimt's prized Portrait of Adele Bloch-Bauer I (described in the film as "the Mona Lisa of Austria"), which is hanging in the Belvedere Gallery in the Austrian capital.

For Altmann, who died in 2011 aged 94, the struggle was about more than just reclaiming a painting from the Viennese bureaucrats determined to keep the treasured piece in Austria.

"Oh, so much more," Mirren agrees. "Yes, it was worth a lot of money, but [it's also the idea that] 'no, it doesn't belong to you, it belongs to me. It's what I grew up with and you have stolen it'."

While her character had a troubled relationship with her home town, London-born Mirren was warmly received in Vienna and was even presented with a medal for services to the city by its mayor.

"I don't think they were really giving it to me, they were giving it to Maria Altmann. The mayor said to me that, above all, Maria's efforts to reclaim the paintings had made the city of Vienna face up to the past."

The daughter of a Russian father and an English mother, Mirren's paternal Russian family, exiled after the 1917 Revolution, also knew what it felt like to leave everything behind.

"My grandfather [a tsarist] lost everything. My Russian family were forced out of their home and had to go and to live in one room of an apartment in Moscow, five of them, with my grandmother dying of stomach cancer. It must have been absolutely horrendous," she says.

"But they were not taken away to concentration camps. I'm not saying there was not unbelievable brutality in Russia during the revolution, there was, but it didn't particularly happen to my family in that way."

Mirren, whose career began as a teenager at the National Youth Theatre, is currently depicting the Queen again in The Audience on Broadway, a production she originally appeared in on the West End stage (she recently ruled out playing the monarch again in Netflix's upcoming drama The Crown, stating, "we must all move on, and me most of all").

"Acting is the only thing I could imagine doing," says Mirren, who's been married to director Taylor Hackford since 1997.

"I mean, maybe I would have been happy like the Queen, living on a farm, far from anywhere with lots of horses, dogs and children all running around, mucking in, getting grubby; those are the lines I say in the play."

"I guess I could imagine doing that. I love gardening, I love the countryside, I love the British climate."

When talk turns to the thrill of the stage, however, it seems highly unlikely Mirren will quit acting any time soon.

"There's something very magical about an empty theatre," she says.

"I find it the most powerful, moving, incredible place to be."

"I love walking out on stage before I do the show and looking out at the empty seats, thinking, 'You're mine! All mine!'"

Going for GOLD

DVD/BLU-RAY/STREAMING

FANTASY: THE HOBBIT: THE BATTLE OF THE FIVE ARMIES (12) 144 mins, Warner Home Video, DVD and Blu-ray various formats, streaming
THE company of dwarves led by Thorin Oakenshield (Richard Armitage), including Bilbo Baggins (Martin Freeman), watches in horror as the mighty dragon Smaug (voiced by Benedict Cumberbatch) incinerates Laketown. As the flames rise, Bard the Bowman (Luke Evans) prepares to launch the last remaining black arrow at the beast. His children seek cover with elf warrior Tauriel (Evangeline Lilly) and badly injured dwarf Kili (Aidan Turner). At Dol Guldur, Gandalf (Ian McKellen) escapes from the clutches of the Necromancer (Cumberbatch again) and beats a hasty path to the mountains, where various tribes will converge. The fate of Middle Earth hangs in the balance and Thorin sacrifices everything in his selfish pursuit of the mythical Arkenstone gem.

The Hobbit: The Battle Of Five Armies bids farewell to the magical creatures of JRR Tolkien's novels with a whimper rather than a bang. Comical interludes with snivelling manservant Alfrid (Ryan Gage) seem to jar with the darker tone that pervades this chapter, including the inevitable loss of at least one hero in the melee. Freeman's performance provides a flimsy emotional fulcrum while co-stars battle with their characters' demons or hordes of bloodthirsty orcs. The script occasionally deviates from Tolkien's source text, contriving one superfluous and protracted interlude with elvish allies Elrond (Hugo Weaving) and Galadriel (Cate Blanchett) and the wizard Saruman (Christopher Lee).

Director Peter Jackson's mastery of action sequences is beyond doubt - the two set pieces, which bookend this film, are executed with flair, precision and a miasma of impressive digital effects. A three-disc box set comprising the entire trilogy is also available. Damon Smith

Scrap Cars

End of the road for your vehicle?

Responsible drivers scrap their vehicles at an Authorised Treatment Facility (ATF).

Because only an ATF can legally scrap a vehicle. That means any pollutants will be made safe before it's recycled in an environmentally friendly way.

What's more, for certain types of vehicle you'll get a DVLA approved Certificate of Destruction (CoD). A CoD proves that the ATF has told DVLA your vehicle has been scrapped and so is no longer your responsibility. www.direct.gov.uk/motoring

Are you looking to build a career in Construction?

Weston Homes Plc
 Weston Homes are one of the most successful property developers in the South East of England. Due to our continued success and growth, we are looking to recruit new trainees this Spring. Based at our offices in Takeley, Essex.

Our Management Trainee Scheme offers the opportunity to study to Degree level. The initial year of the scheme is spent gaining experience in each area of our disciplines, providing an overview of the complete construction process and support functions. After the first year, we offer the chance to select a chosen discipline and to study on a day release basis to Degree level.

Applicants must have strong communication skills, determination to succeed, the ability to lead and have either achieved or be expected to achieve two A-Levels (grade C or above). A full driving licence and transport are essential.

Our CareerSTART Scheme offers career training in a variety of roles including: Architectural and Engineering Technology, Site Management, Buying, Estimating, Quantity Surveying & Quality Assurance. The scheme consists of on the job training with one day per week spent studying at College to achieve initially, a BTEC Level 3 Diploma in Construction (2 years) followed by a Higher National Diploma in Construction (2 further years).

Applicants for Quality Assurance & Site Management must be 18+, hold a full driving licence, be willing to travel and have transport available to them. Applicants for all other positions must be 16+. You must have achieved or be expected to achieve 5 GCSEs (grade C or above) including Maths and English.

Interested in one or both of these schemes & want to find out more?
Why not attend our open day on Saturday 25th April 2015.

Throughout the day we would like to show you the wide range of careers that construction offers: Surveying, Buying, Estimating, Architectural Drawing, Engineering Drawing, Land Buying, Planning, Quality, Customer Service and traditional Site Management. Our aim is to encourage people to consider these career choices and for us to explain the benefits of combining sponsored college education with on the job mentoring for the practical application of learning.

If you would like to attend this event, please email openday@weston-homes.com to register your interest and receive more information.

HEADTEACHER September 2015 or January 2016
 (Non-teaching with a small PPA commitment)

"a warm and friendly community" (Ofsted)
 (Overall Ofsted judgement 'Good' February 2014)

Leadership Scale: 11-17 (£48,991-£56,670) NOR: 152 Group size: 2
Closing date: Noon 27th April 2015 Shortlisting: 28th April 2015
Interviews: 5th May 2015

This is an exciting opportunity to join a great school where pupils, staff, parents and governors work together to engender a spirit of community and learning. Pupils at Newport Primary School receive an extraordinary variety of curricular, extra-curricular and sporting activities that gives them every opportunity to develop as well-rounded individuals with a solid education to take them forward to their next stage of schooling.

We are seeking a new Headteacher to sustain and build on the excellent achievements of our retiring Headteacher. You will need to be a forward thinking educator with a commitment to the further development of the school. You will have a passion for the children's learning, happiness and safety.

IN RETURN YOU ARE OFFERED:

- Enthusiastic, happy, well behaved children, excited about learning in the "lively and vibrant learning environment which helps them to learn quickly." (Ofsted, Feb 14)
- Parents who are "delighted with the school. They play an active role in making this a warm and friendly community." (Ofsted, Feb 14)
- Supportive staff with a passion for innovative teaching and learning.
- Proactive and involved governing body who "combine their skills well to offer effective challenge and support to the school." (Ofsted, Feb 14)
- Commitment to support the Headteacher in the ongoing professional development of the school and its staff.

Informal visits to the school are encouraged and warmly welcomed up to 5pm on 27th April. To arrange a visit and receive an application pack please contact

Mrs Ali Wood on 01799 540055/07850 682315 or email: ali@newport.essex.sch.uk

We are committed to safeguarding the welfare of children and young people in our care and expect all staff to share this commitment. We follow safer recruitment practice and appointments are subject to satisfactory references and DBS clearance.

Legal Notices

Closure of St Mary's Churchyard, Peldon Road, Great Parndon, Harlow

Notice is hereby given that it is the intention of the Secretary of State for Justice, acting on an application by the incumbent and churchwardens, to apply to the Privy Council for an Order requiring the discontinuance of burials in the above churchyard.

Provision would be made for the following exceptions:-

- in any vault or walled grave in the churchyard, burial may be allowed but every coffin in such vault or grave must be separately enclosed by stonework or brick work properly cemented;
- in any existing earthen grave in the churchyard, the burial may be allowed of the body of any member of the family of the person or persons previously buried in that grave, but no part of the coffin containing the body shall be less than one metre below the level of the surface of the ground adjoining the grave; and
- in any grave space in which no interment has previously taken place, the burial may be allowed of any person for whom, or any member of the family for which that grave space has been reserved and appropriated, with the exclusive right of burial there, but no part of the coffin containing the body shall be less than one metre below the level of the surface of the ground adjoining the grave.

Any representations about the proposed closure should be sent to the Coroners, Burials, Cremation and Inquiries Team, 4.38, Ministry of Justice, 102 Petty France, London SW1H9AJ (quoting reference OPR1075/281) within 21 days of this publication.

Date 16th April 2015.

Essex County Council

(Footpath 7, Little Bardfield Copford Hall Footbridge ECC No.1857) (Temporary Prohibition of Use) Order 2015

Further to a notice: Under Section 14(2) of the Road Traffic Regulation Act 1984, which commenced on 12 March 2015 and 2 April 2015.

Notice is hereby given that the Essex County Council has made the above Order under Section 14(1) of the Road Traffic Regulation Act 1984.

Effect of the order: to temporarily close Footpath 7, Little Bardfield (Copford Hall Footbridge ECC No.1857) in the District of Uttlesford/Braintree, from a point 180 metres north of its junction with Bell Lane, north for a distance of 6.2 metres.

The closure is scheduled to commence on 23 April 2015 for 6 months, weather permitting, or where appropriate signs are showing. The closure is required for the safety of the public as the original footbridge (Copford Hall FB, ECC No. 1857) was damaged beyond repair from fallen tree. Footbridge now removed with barriers placed either end of original footbridge location, closing the footpath. Footbridge to be replaced for the safety of the footpath users.

The alternative route will be via Footpath 3, Great Bardfield – Footpath 5, Little Bardfield – Footpath 15, Little Bardfield – Footpath 7, Little Bardfield and vice versa.

The Order will come into effect on 23 April 2015 and may continue in force for 6 months, or until the works are completed, whichever is the earlier.
Dated: 16 April 2015.

Liz Burr, Head of Network Management, County Hall, Chelmsford.

Essex County Council

North Essex Parking Partnership (Market Street, Harlow) Temporary Traffic Restrictions

Notice is hereby given Colchester Borough Council acting on behalf of the North Essex Parking Partnership in exercise of the delegated powers of the traffic authority Essex County Council granted under an Agreement dated 31 March 2011 intends to make the following order under Section 14 (1) of the Road Traffic Regulation Act 1984.

(Market Street, Harlow) (Temporary Waiting Restriction) Order 2015

Effects of the order: To introduce no waiting restrictions in those lengths of road described below. The restrictions are required to avoid danger to the public and other traffic on the road and to prevent the likelihood of any such danger occurring.

Market Street, Harlow

To suspend the following order: No waiting 7am to 11pm

To replace with: No waiting at any time

On the following lengths of Market Street, Harlow

North Side – from its junction with London Road, west for 18 metres

South Side – from its junction with London Road, west for 15 metres

The District of Harlow (On Street) (Waiting Loading and Parking) (Consolidation) Order 2011 shall be temporarily amended in so far as it relates to the waiting restrictions detailed in this Notice.

The Order will come into operation on 27th April 2015 and may continue in force for up to 18 months.

Richard Walker, Parking Partnership Group Manager, Colchester Borough Council, Rowan House, 33 Sheepen Road, Colchester, CO3 3WG.

Notice of Making of an Order
(Other than an Acquisition Extinguishment Order)
Highways Act 1980 – Section 119
Footpath 183 (Part) Harlow
In The District Of Harlow
Public Path Diversion Order 2015

The above Order made on 30th March, 2015 under section 119 of the Highways Act 1980 will divert a part length of public Footpath 183 in the District of Harlow as shown on the Order map contained in this Order. The effect of the Order will be to divert a part length of Footpath 183 Harlow, (which is the Harlowbury House access drive which shares vehicular use) from where it terminates at the junction between Old Road and Priory Avenue, to an alternative route further away from the historic Grade 1 listed Harlowbury Chapel (although good views of the chapel are maintained) to the south along the field boundary for walkers only to where it will terminate further along Old Road. A small section of path at the east end will be diverted from the adjacent field owned by the Marigold Trust. The Footpath is to exit the field 10 metres west of the current stile with a gap of 1.8 metres cut through the existing rails of the fence.

A copy of the Order and the Order Map have been placed in and may be seen free of charge at Harlow District Council Offices at Civic Centre, The Water Gardens, Harlow CM20 1WG and at the Chelmsford Public Library, Market Road, Chelmsford during normal working hours. Copies of the Order and Order map are available on request from the Chelmsford Library at a charge.

Any representation about or objection to the Order may be sent or delivered in writing addressed to Laurence Page, Definitive Map Service, Essex Highways, County Hall, A2 annexe, Chelmsford CM1 1QH, no later than 14th May, 2015 and should state the grounds on which it is made.

If no such representations or objections are duly made, or if any so made are withdrawn, Essex County Council may itself confirm the Order as an unopposed Order. If the Order is sent to the Secretary of State for the Environment for confirmation, any representations or objections which have not been withdrawn will be taken into account by the Council with the result that they may be made available to the public under the Local Government (Access to Information) Act 1985.

Paul Bird, Director of Commissioning: Transport & Infrastructure County Hall, Market Road Chelmsford, Essex, CM1 1QH.

Date: 16th April 2015.

Monty sees big chance to take turn in Test side

Spinner hoping for overs early in season

Oliver Harbord

oliver.harbord@hertsessexnews.co.uk

SPINNER Monty Panesar is hoping to get early-season overs under his belt in an attempt to put his name back in the hat for an England spot.

The 32-year-old has not played a Test match since Australia in December 2013, with 50 Test appearances under his belt.

But with England still not settling on a front-line spinner since the retirement of Graeme Swann in the same series, there is still a void to fill.

In the recent matches against

Sri Lanka and India, England have used the spin of Worcestershire's Moeen Ali, despite him being predominately a batsman.

And Panesar believes the chance may still be there to earn an international recall.

He said: "I feel that the option is still always talked about and if I can continue to put in some hard work then it is a possibility.

"But I need the overs as well, if I am not bowling the overs then it will be very difficult for me to put my name up for selection.

"So hopefully I will get the chance to do that and maybe that opportunity may come with England as well.

"It will be dependent on pitch conditions and the weather, you look at it today and it feels like it is July or August.

"Usually it is pretty warm in Chelmsford and it doesn't seem to rain too much so hopefully, fingers crossed, I am able to get some overs in the early part of the season. Then you can just take it from there."

Desire

"I think the most important thing is that I prepare myself really well, I put in the hard work and have that motivation and desire to win games for Essex."

After a turbulent few years,

Panesar has now settled in Essex since joining from Sussex – initially on loan – in 2013.

And with a decent winter behind him, Panesar is determined to help Essex get promoted into the County Championship Division One.

He added: "I am very much excited and looking forward to getting the season under way. I want to put in a lot of hard work and I feel very passionate about Essex.

"I think for myself this is a place where I call home now and somewhere that I really enjoy playing my cricket.

"I like the training methods that we have in place and I really feel that this year my game can kick on and develop as an all-round better package. Not just for myself but for the team as well.

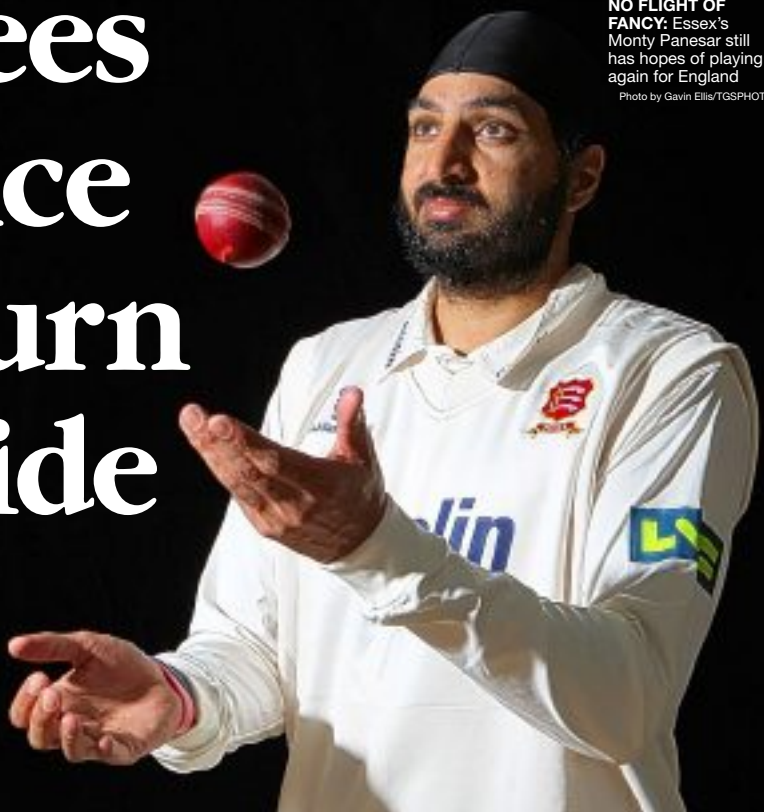

"I really enjoyed the training over the winter and it is the first time for a few years that I have stayed in England to do it. All I want to do now is to just try to take that forward into the outdoor season.

"We are a very strong squad and one of the strongest now in county cricket.

"Hopefully we can get that promotion this year and maybe one trophy would be a really successful year for Essex."

EVERYONE at the club is massively looking forward to the season getting going.

It has been a long winter and it feels like there is finally light at the end of the tunnel with the first fixture almost here.

There is a great feeling of excitement amongst the lads and the media day we had on Tuesday brings the milestone of the first-class fixtures almost here.

It is all just coming as a bit of a reality now, especially for some of the youngsters.

I am only 21, so it feels weird being one of the senior bowlers in the side, but the attitude of the guys who have come in has been brilliant. Morro [Tom Moore] is brilliant, he is not scared to ask questions and wants to learn, as does Ports [Jamie Porter].

They are brilliant lads and we all get on well also and they have the right attitude to learn and do well, they want to learn the trade.

With my injury, the last stress fracture I had was diagnosed in July, but I kept playing because we were on course to win a one-day trophy and I wanted to be part of the squad.

I have really had the whole winter off where I haven't been able to do anything, but now it is all healed.

Now I am just getting back into bowling I am looking forward to hopefully being ready for the first T20 Blast match at Hampshire on May 15.

Workload

At the moment I wouldn't be able to handle the workload of the four-day game, whereas the T20 game will be good for me to ease my way back into it.

Fingers crossed, the injuries are behind me, all I can do is make sure that I take care of my body within my own capabilities to prevent it happening again.

Left-arm seamers are always important, they have always been dangerous and I think over the winter in the World Cup it has shown that there are some world-class ones.

For example, Trent Boult and Mitchell Starc have really matured as bowlers and are coming into the peaks of their careers.

My goal is still to play for England and to be the first left-arm seamer to take 100 wickets for England, because nobody has done that yet.

So this season is just another part of the process of getting to that goal.

Pace ace Porter keen to make instant impression

NEWCOMER Jamie Porter has admitted that he is "full of excitement" ahead of his full debut season with Essex.

The 21-year-old burst on to the scene last season when he trapped the ever-dangerous Kent all-rounder Darren Stevens lbw in his first over of County Championship cricket.

And impressive performances in two more games at the end of the 2014 campaign earned him a first-team contract.

The Leytonstone-born seamer has also impressed in pre-season, taking eight wickets in the Eagles' friendly with Surrey last week.

And with pitches likely to be in the bowlers' favour in the early months, Porter admits it is important to make a decent start to his year.

He said: "I can't wait to get going, I had a good pre-season and am just full of excitement.

"Confidence-wise, it [pre-season] has done wonders for my bowling, but I am trying not to read too much into it because that can be gone quickly if you don't start the season well.

"It is massive to get some early wickets, because during April and maybe early May the wickets will be doing a bit, whereas later on in the summer the pitches will be flat. It is time to cash in early.

"I am loving it here and we have some amazing senior players.

"Graham Napier, David Masters, Mark Pettini and James Foster have all been around this winter and these guys aren't afraid to share what they know with the young lads, which is brilliant.

"You don't even need to approach them, they are more than happy to go out of their way to help you. It has made life so much easier this winter and it certainly made me feel welcome and part of the team."

Porter will likely be given the chance to impress, with Essex releasing Tymal Mills and Saj Mahmood while being quiet on the intake of players over the winter.

Head coach Paul Grayson has only brought in Australian Shaun Tait to bolster the attack for the T20 Blast competition and has instead, along with Porter, signed academy products Matt Salisbury and Tom Moore.

Porter added: "The one thing that has really stood out to me about Paul Grayson is that I always feel like he backs me and I think that is the same for all the players.

"I feel like I have all the coaches' backing which is a pretty special feeling.

"Before I got in to the side I always looked at it and wondered how I would get into the first team, and it looks like I will get my opportunity now.

"It looks like I might get the opportunity to pin down my place in the four-day side and I am really targeting to establish myself in that.

"Then I will see if I can work my way into the one-day side, maybe more the 50-over cricket because of Shaun Tait coming in for the T20 games."

Super Sidnie strides to top

ATHLETICS: BURN'T Mill pupil Sidnie Ward hit the top of the UK U13 rankings for the 800m, after his first track race outdoors.

At Woodside Stadium, Watford, the 12-year-old placed third in a mixed age race over 800m in a time of 2min 17.52sec.

Sidnie, who has two county titles, the Essex Indoors 800m and Essex Schools Year 7 boys' Cross Country titles, jumped for joy when he discovered after the race that his time had taken him to the top of rankings.

It was all the more impressive as Sidnie had a bad start and found himself at the back of the field of 12 runners.

As the race progressed he moved through strongly to finish just behind Owen Armstrong, 15, also a Burnt Mill student. Owen ran 2min 16 sec.

Other local pupils achieved PBs (personal bests) at Woodford. Georgina Handford (12, St Nicholas School) took 13 seconds off her PB, running 2:48 to come sixth in her mixed 800m.

In fourth was Hannah Page (12, Burnt Mill) with a PB of 2:46. Seventh was Burnt Mill's Liam Waldron with a PB of 2:48.5.

Mark Hall student Canaan Solomo, 16, ran the 400m for the first time at Lee Valley.

The Essex Schools Inter Boys champion won by a long way, clocking 49.91, a time that ranks him third in the UK for U17 men.

St Nicholas student Zoe Benton, 16, is also ranked third in the UK for U17 women's 300m hurdles after running 45.64.

At Chelmsford, Max Chinn, a nine-year-old ex-Henry Moore pupil won his first ever track race over 600m for U11s, leading all the way to a time of 1:59.3.

In second, from a field of ten, was Churchgate Street pupil Tyler Jackson in 2:01.1. Just behind Tyler was Jacob Kaikai, a St Nicholas pupil, with a PB of 2:01.91. Earlier Jacob was second in the U11 60m in 9.92.

Daniel shines on home turf

RUNNING: HARLOW Running Club member Daniel Jephcott completed the Harlow parkrun 5K in third out of 98 finishers in an excellent 20min 24sec.

He was followed home by Colin Moody (12th, 1st Vet 60, 24:02), Spencer Brooks (14th, 24:14), Terry Pike (38th, 27:35), Louise Cootes (40th, 28:03) and Catherine Ridge (64th, 33:19).

At the Hatfield Forest parkrun 5K Jon Steadman finished in 15th place out of 99 finishers in 22:09.

He was followed by Justin Patten (25th, 23:24), Michelle Aitken (34th, 25:50) and Janice Page (36th, 1st Lady Vet 50, 25:58).

At the Hillingdon Half Marathon, Pete Brewin came 30th out of 367 finishers in a superb 1:28:59 and Alex Smith was 40th with a personal best of 1:29:59.

At the Sandy 10 near Bedford, Richard Solomons was 79th out of 470 finishers and third Vet 60 in 1:12:25.

At the Paris Marathon Andy Kinney finished 37,806th out of 40,157 finishers in 5:28:36.

Hawks sign off with a flourish

London Three North East
Harlow 75
Clacton 17

THE Hawks rounded off their league season on Saturday with a great exhibition of rugby.

They ran in 11 tries, ten converted, against visitors Clacton, who have had a tough season but played with great commitment and it took Harlow half an hour to get the upper hand.

Danny Fitzgerald came in at loose head prop in place of the injured James Ephgrave and made a real impact. In the backs Alasdair Phillips rounded off the season with an excellent hat-trick.

At fly-half Danny Smith has had a great season with the boot and on Saturday converted 10 tries, two from his own tries for a personal tally of 30 points.

Harlow started strongly taking play deep into the Clacton half and after several moves broke down, the forwards powered over the line for Darren Hawkins to score and Smith to convert for a seven-point lead.

Despite playing up the slope the visitors managed to mount a counter attack and cut the lead with an unconverted try.

For the first half hour they kept Harlow out but then the breakthrough came. First Phillips outpaced the defence for his first try.

Immediately from the restart full-back Fozzie Brown came into the line and went through for another try.

Four minutes later Phillips had his second. Smith was on target with all three conversions for a 28-5 lead to Harlow.

Just before half-time the Harlow pack drove Clacton over the line from a 5m scrum.

The ball was held up but from the restart they drove over again and this time Kain Claridge was ready to ground the ball for the try which was converted for a 35-5 lead at the interval.

A couple of minutes into the second half Claridge linked up with a handling move and went over for his second try.

Two minutes later Clacton pushed Harlow on to the defensive and crossed the line for a try which was converted.

Another try made it 40-17 before Harlow hit back with some of the best running of the game.

First Smith made a break and cut through for a try. Minutes later it was centre Jamie Fricker who split the defence and then Phillips added another try to complete his hat-trick.

With the score at 61-17 Harlow were back in control. With 15 minutes to go Werner Kotze, making a very welcome return after a long absence with injury, showed he still has his pace and ran in the tenth Harlow try. In the closing stages Smith made his mark with his second try.

With 14 wins from 22 games and a very secure fourth place this is the best result since Harlow joined this league.

They have improved steadily and with new facilities on the horizon, the future is bright.

Double dream alive as Leopards slay Dragons

Victory over Bradford puts Big Cats into the final four

PIVOTAL ROLE: Leopards' Albert Margai goes on the attack against the Bradford Dragons

Basketball

LEOPARDS kept their double hopes alive with an 82-76 victory against Bradford Dragons at a packed Brentwood Centre on Sunday.

The win in the play-off quarter-final sends them through to the final four for a record-breaking fifth successive season and they will face Kent Crusaders at the English Institute of Sport in Sheffield on Saturday, with the winner facing either Derby Trailblazers or Manchester Magic in the following day's final.

Crusaders have been the Big Cats' bogey side this season, winning three of the four meetings, with home-court advantage being key in all four games.

The young Crusaders team were in contention for the league title all season before finishing fourth in arguably the tightest division one race in history.

Coached by former Leopards player and assistant coach Lloyd

Gardner, Crusaders have two former Big Cats in John Steel and Duane Orija, who helped them win the treble in 2012.

There was little to choose between the two teams in Sunday's game but once again Leopards stepped up in the final four minutes, outscoring the visitors 14-6 to seal the game.

Trimmed

Leopards led 18-15 at the first break before seeing their advantage trimmed to 39-38 going into the locker room at half-time.

Inspired by 23 points from American guard JP Davis, the visitors weren't going away quietly and outscored Leopards 22-18 in the third period to take a 60-57 lead into the final break.

They were still 70-68 ahead with four minutes remaining when Dave Ajumobi sunk a trey off Albert Margai's assist and the hosts never let that lead slip.

Courtney van Beest made it a three-point game with a jump shot, and Ajumobi increased the margin to five with 1min 47sec remaining.

Miguel Lorenzo Leis gave his side hope with a three-pointer with 91 seconds remaining before Ajumobi split a pair of foul shots.

Van Beest put his side five up with 42 seconds remaining, but Bradford had one last push as Davis converted a three-point play to make it a two-point game 20 seconds from time, but fittingly it was captain Margai who sunk the free-throws that sealed the win.

Ajumobi led a balanced scoring effort with 22 points and eight rebounds, with Richards adding 14 points and Margai finishing with 13 points and five assists.

Will Ashby shook off a quiet first half to hit three big treys in a 12-point haul while Van Beest missed out on a double-double by a single rebound having added ten points.

After the game, the Big Cats were presented with the division one trophy and medals by the visiting dignitaries.

Cricket clubs return to action with derby friendlies

Cricket

However, the Town bowlers regained control and ran through the lower order to finish off Old Chelmsfordians' innings at 94.

Town's bowlers were Dan Farmer (2-14), Omar Ayaz (3-20), Simon Rowell (2-23), Jabhir Iqbal (1-16) and Tyrone Mazarura (2-21).

In reply, Town lost openers Jason Gladwin and Shiraz Ali cheaply before Neil Gladwin (51) and Pat Yates (34) saw the Town home without any further drama.

The team travel to neighbours Sawbridgeworth this Saturday for what will be a much tougher test.

Sunday saw Town lose comprehensively to another local rival in Hoddesdon.

Hoddesdon racked up 191-6, but in reply Town were bowled out for 105. Scott Alderson top scored for Harlow with 44.

■ HARLOW Cricket Club travelled to neighbours

Broxbourne on Saturday for a friendly, but fell to a 42-run defeat.

Harlow won the toss and elected to field.

Broxbourne's innings was held together by a knock of 104 from James Grijters as well as solid innings from Robin Glassberg (45) and Chris Sargent (47).

Luke Monger took 3-58 for Harlow as Broxbourne finished their innings on 245-5 after the 45 overs.

After a shaky start with Nino

Calvino departing for a duck, Alan Jones (29), Hafiz with a debut 67, Anthony Webb (39) and Luke Heskett (30) all steadied the ship.

However, they were the only Harlow players to reach double figures on the day and their side eventually slipped to 203 all out from 40.4 overs to fall to the defeat.

Their chief tormentor was Broxbourne bowler Kulbir Gill (3-52), but the rest of the wickets were shared out among all the other bowlers.

Football

Hammers' time comes to Harlow

Pioneering project launched by top scout

by Alan Scott

alan.scott@hertssexnews.co.uk

WEST Ham United scout Peter Dutton put youngsters from Harlow through an intensive football trial ahead of the launch of a pioneering football education course in Harlow.

The qualified coach held trials ahead of the start of the Harlow school of the West Ham Learning Academy, a two-year education programme combining football and learning.

The course takes place at Passmores Academy secondary school in Traces Road.

Dutton is the director of football and sport at West Ham United Elite, official partners of the West Ham United Academy in association with West Ham United Foundation.

Youngsters need to attend a trial this month and, if selected, will study for a two-year B-Tec diploma in sport.

They will play football in the Conference Youth Alliance League, while studying for professional coaching UEFA A and B qualifications.

Fantastic opportunity

The course has been endorsed by West Ham legend Tony Carr.

He ran the Upton Park Academy for more than 30 years, bringing through the likes of Rio Ferdinand, Frank Lampard, Joe Cole and Michael Carrick.

"I am delighted with the programme and see the WHUF Learning Academy as a fantastic opportunity for boys between the age of 16-18 to become part of such a successful youth set-up," said Carr MBE, the WHUFC Academy

Ambassador.

"Hopefully this scheme can produce some talented players for the future."

Dutton is running the Passmores camp with the help of former Harlow Town and Bishop's Stortford FC defender Sam Taylor.

Dutton was excited about bringing the venture to Harlow, which has been a hotbed of footballing talent for several decades.

Harlow's most famous footballing son is former Tottenham Hotspur and England legend Glenn Hoddle.

The likes of ex-Newcastle United winger Darren Ambrose, a former Passmores student himself, former Spurs defender Luke Young, an ex-Mark Hall School student, as well as ex-Brighton & Hove Albion striker Gary Hart are all from Harlow.

Dutton explained: "My role will be as head coach at the venue, Sam [Taylor] will oversee the venue."

"This has been run successfully at Beckton and East London for three years and now the project is expanding, working with Passmores and their school, and also a new site in Ongar not too far away."

Dutton's knowledge and experience in football has spanned a few decades.

He said: "I have coached at West Ham with the pre-academy, international academy and am a scout for the club."

"I had a short spell as a young teen at the club, then had semi-pro spells for Leytonstone & Ilford (now Dagenham & Redbridge), East Ham United and Clapton United."

"From a footballing point of view we aim to deliver the level of coaching that the academy would deliver, as well as the education side."

"The students will do their Level 1 FA coaching course and potentially Level 2 with coaching opportunities with the club and its partners."

Dutton is running more trials this weekend (Saturday April 18).

These will take place from 10am-1pm.

A second trial will be held on Tuesday April 19 from 4pm-7pm.

For more information go to at www.WeAreSCL.co.uk or email Sam Taylor at staylor@westhamunited.co.uk to book a place on the trial.

GETTING SHIRTY: Some of the club's talented players in their new shirts

Tennis club seals shirt deal

HARLOW Lawn Tennis Club will certainly look the part for the start of their LTA AEGON League.

This was after the Latton Bush club secured sponsorship from Old Harlow-based estate agents Howick & Brooker for all of the club's team match shirts.

The Lawn Tennis Association AEGON League started last weekend.

The AEGON teams comprise of four players in the following ages: U8, U9, U10, U18 and men's open.

All four players in each age group play singles and doubles against other clubs in Essex.

Over the past five years the club has won a number of the Aegon Essex divisional titles and is hoping to build on that success again this season.

Luke Spooner, performance coach at Harlow Lawn Tennis Club, is relishing the campaign.

"All of the teams have been training hard over the last few months in the club's performance programme and are they are all looking forward to putting their skills to the test over the coming weeks," Spooner said.

The shirts were presented by Paul Brooker and Barbara Brooker to all the players at a presentation evening at the Southern Way club last week.

Paul said: "It's fantastic to be able to sponsor the club's competition teams, and we wish them all the very best in what I am sure will be a successful team event."

SUCCESS: The triumphant Harlow gymnasts

Gymnasts' champs bronze joy

LOIS HALE (10) and Rebecca Porter (13) took pride of place among Harlow Gymnastics Club at the Essex NDP regional grade competition in Colchester.

Passmores student Rebecca was awarded the overall bronze medal and was commended in the grade 4 (age 13+) competition after taking first on floor and second on bars.

Lois took the overall bronze medal and earned a distinction in the grade 4 (age 11/12) event. She was first on floor, second on vault and third on bars.

Also competing in the grade 4 (age 11/12) section were Halle Ince (10) and Scarlett Baldock (10), who finished in ninth and 12th place respectively, both achieving distinctions.

Heather Cannon (10) finished in 11th place overall with a distinction and team-mate Scarlett McFarlain (9) was 15th and was commended in the grade 4 (age 10) event.

Burnt Mill student Rosie Bennett (12) was commended in the grade 2 event. She received the overall fifth place rosette after finishing second on vault, third on beam and third on floor. In the grade 3 (age 11/12) competition, Sadie Jessey (10) was awarded a distinction and the sixth place overall rosette after taking second on beam and third on vault.

Tillie Macintosh (11) finished in tenth place in the same event. Stewards student Olivia Collier (13) earned a distinction and the fourth place overall rosette. She was third on bars and beam in the grade 3 (age 13+) competition.

Narrowly missing out on a rosette position, Burnt Mill student Tyler-Louise Pollard (13) was seventh overall with a distinction.

Ruby Still (9), finished in eighth place overall.

In the grade 6 (age 11+) section Isabella Ormerod (11) was first in range and conditioning and finished with a distinction in eighth place overall.

Brodie Keown (9) was awarded a distinction in the grade 6 (age 9/10) section. She was ninth overall after third on vault.

Coach Aimee Teahan said: "It was a very long day with lots of competitors, but as always our gymnasts were fantastic. Their brilliant results reflect their hard work and training."

READY TO RISE? Essex Leopards lift the league trophy

Big Cats keen on taking up top-flight spot

HEAD coach Robert Youngblood has confirmed the Essex Leopards would be interested in stepping up into the British Basketball League (BBL) next season.

The Harlow and Brentwood-based Leopards clinched the National Basketball League this month, and therefore get the opportunity to take part in the top league in the country.

But Youngblood did admit that there could be some conditions to taking the next step up.

He said: "We would look to go into the BBL; that would be the next challenge."

"But if we are going to do that then we need to start looking at sponsorship because it would cost some more money."

"The league entrance fee is around £20,000, then of course you need to be looking at boosting the squad a bit to be able to compete in the league."

"You may need to bring in some other players as well as the home-grown talent, so all in all you are looking at around £60,000 to be able to compete."

"It would be fantastic if we could do it though and let the guys at the highest level."

The Leopards are currently looking to do the double after getting their play-off campaign under way with an 82-76 quarter-final victory over Bradford Dragons at the Brentwood Leisure Centre on Sunday.

That has taken Youngblood's side to the play-off finals this weekend at the English Institute of Sport in Sheffield. They will take on Kent Crusaders in the semi-final, with the winner facing either Derby Trailblazers or Manchester Magic.

HAWKS ARE READY FOR TITLE DECIDER

Chapman looking for his side's character to prevail

by Jack Kinnersley

sportsdesk@hertsexnews.co.uk

HAWKS boss Danny Chapman believes that his side's character has been crucial as they travel to Needham Market for their mammoth Ryman North title clash.

Harlow sit one point behind leaders Needham with two games to go, knowing a defeat on Saturday would end their chances of grabbing top spot and the only automatic promotion place.

After watching his side cruise to a 3-1 victory over Maldon & Tiptree, showing they have truly bounced back from the recent Cray Wanderers defeat, Chapman said: "I don't think we would have ended up with 99 points and 104 goals without belief."

"Craig Pope, Warren Goodhind, Andy Walker and Leon Antoine have all played at a high level. So that experience and a bit of youth and talent is a good mixture."

"The defeat against Cray hurt the boys. Not only because of the defeat but the way they were perceived to have played on the day."

Chapman is relishing the Needham clash, but is well aware of the consequences of a defeat.

"If they beat us then the title is theirs. Obviously it is a massive game, a title decider," he said.

"It could either be a really good game or a real stalemate, but we won't approach it any other way than we do any other game."

Prepare

If Needham do win on Saturday, the Hawks boss says the club will quickly reassess and prepare for the play-offs.

"First of all we need to get promoted automatically and we're not too far off that aim," he said.

"If it doesn't go according to plan then we'll reassess from there. It's always been the aim to try to win the league."

"The boys want that as well but they've kept their feet firmly on the ground, and the work they have put in so far has been fantastic, we just need to see it through."

Alex Read made his return from injury on Saturday, after sitting out seven matches, coming off the bench for the last ten minutes, and is in contention for the crunch clash.

Sixteen places separated the two sides but it was Maldon who took a surprise lead. Nathan Korangten slid a pass through to Sos Yao who curled his shot into the far corner from a tight angle after five minutes.

The Hawks levelled on 16 minutes. Robbie Martin's free-kick was met by Marc Gorbell, which Darren Beckett parried on to Mason Bloomfield and into the back of the net for an own goal.

Skipper David Cowley was brought down in the box on 31 minutes and Jamie Guy smashed the penalty into the top right hand corner.

Harlow continued their dominance in the second half when Guy whipped the ball across the six yard box and Junior Dadson tapped home in the 55th minute to seal the victory.
